The New Holbein Portrait: Henry VIII.

phone: England's Theatre-Goers:
Sir A. Chamberlain Looks
At The Past

London, Oct. 28.
THE SNOW LEOPARD
I looked in again yesterday at the Spink Gallery, St. James's-street, to have another look at the Holbein portrait of Henry VIII. When I arrived a conference of experts was in progress.
Dr. Paul Ganz was the centre of the group. He is a small, sharp-featured man, with a peculiarly penetrating eye, and a delightful sense of humour.

STRANGE FUR
He told me that he was quite certain that the portrait was by Holbein; and then immediately asked, "Did you hear about the snow leopard?"
"Well," said he, without giving me time to answer, as he hurried into St. James's-street, "at first we were all puzzled by the peculiar character of the white fur of the King's collar."

"Clearly it was not ermine or any other skin known to us through studying Tudor portraits. I had the curiosity to consult a zoologist in Switzerland, who told me at once that it was made of a skin from the underside of a leopard."

KING HENRY'S MENAGERIE
"Not entirely satisfied," continued Dr. Ganz, "I went on Sunday to the Natural History Museum in South Kensington, where I was informed that the fur was that of a snow leopard."

Dr. Ganz added that he remembered having read in contemporary literature that Henry had at Hampton Court, Palace a private menagerie, one or more of whose inmates belonged to this rare species. He promised to hunt up the reference at leisure, if only for the sake of amusement.

FORGOTTEN ESTATES
The City Corporation carries on a very old custom to-morrow when it presents a bundle of faggots, a few horse-shoes, and sixty-one nails to the King's Remembrancer as "quit-rent" for certain lands held from the Crown.

The faggots, and the bill-hook and hatchet attached thereto, represent a piece of land known as "The Moore," in Shropshire; while the horse-shoes and the nails are in respect of "The Forge," in the parish of St. Clement Dances, on which the Knight Templars of old held their tournaments.

The ceremony of presentation is at least 700 years old, but, oddly enough, no one now knows exactly where the Moors' or "the Forge" was situated.

A SLEEPER JUBILEE
When the Duke of York, who has been suffering from a chill, returned from Scotland the other night, he was celebrating the "diamond jubilee" of the sleeping cars between England and the North.

There was only one of these cars in October, 1873. It ran between London and Glasgow, performing the journey each way three times a week.

Sleeping accommodation was provided for four females and eight males, as the official report says, and an extra fare of ten shillings was charged.

MADAME TETRASSINI'S FAREWELLS
Mme. Luisa Tetrassini, who is starting her farewell tour of Britain with a concert at Reading to-morrow night, was in excellent health and spirits when she received a number of guests at her hotel this afternoon. She talked about her coming retirement, about her Italian home, where she will continue to keep open house to the young artists who seek her help in perfecting their singing, and about her many pets, including the nightingales that haunt her garden. She is proud of the celebrated parrot that imitates her cadences and that reaches higher notes than she can do. "One" of her many Pekingese, she declared, also has a singing voice.

It was odd to hear the famous prima donna imitate the songs of these creatures. She said that, while she keeps up her singing practice, it is not necessary after a certain age for a singer of long experience to do so more than two or three times a week. Her audiences need not expect her to sing either "Home Sweet Home" or Tosti's "Good-bye, for she regards the one as sacred to Patti, and she hates the word "good-bye."

Talking about the towns she will visit on her tour, Mme. Tetrassini said that outside London she loved Edinburgh best. "Manchester is all right," she added kindly, "but I am afraid of the smoke of its factories." It is therefore to be hoped that the air will be exceptionally clear on November 25. From England Mme. Tetrassini sets off on a world tour, in the course of which she will for the first time visit South Africa, Australia and New Zealand.

SOMETHING IN HAND
In the matter of speed the snail has a bit in hand that has never been employed on her regular runs. But for all that her admirers will have to wait a while before a sister ship will be available on the Southampton-Quebec route.

I gather that Mr. Beatty went into the whole question while he was here and decided that the company must wait another couple of years before building a new Empress.

DEMORALISING MICROPHONE
A friend who recently delivered his first broadcast talk told me of the curious sensations he experienced when it was over.

"For twenty minutes," he said, "you read from your manuscript. You come to the end. You say the traditional 'Good night.' And then come the anti-climax. You realise that you have been alone all the time."

"The microphone, your only previous link with the world, is now dumb. There is no means of telling whether the talk has 'gone across' or not."

"In fact," concluded my friend, "I rose from my chair in the most demoralised frame of mind imaginable."

THE KEENEST THEATRE-GOERS
London, Oct. 18.

Londoners are not good theatre-goers. Indeed, if one goes by the statistics which have just been compiled by the Duchess Theatre, where "Eight Bells" is having a successful run, they are definitely bad.

Suburban dwellers come first with a preference for matinees, and Friday and Saturday evenings. Then come the Home Counties (Wednesday and Saturday).

The Dominions and Colonies rank third. Australians and New Zealanders in London are the greatest theatre addicts.

London, proper, only comes fourth. The Londoners have a preference, apparently, for Tuesday and, dislikes Saturdays.

COMPARATIVE STATISTICS
The method of taking the census was to insert a leaflet in the programme asking patrons to fill in the name of the town or the suburb whence they come. Eighty per cent., I gather, did so.

SIR AUSTEN'S MEMORIES
Sir Austen Chamberlain yesterday recalled some of the many associations his family has had with the Carpenters' Company, when Sir Eric Drummond was presented with the freedom of the Company.

His great uncle, Stanton Preston, was Master in 1375-8 and Clerk from 1378 to 1392.

Sir Austen confessed that some of his earliest recollections were of vast boxes of crystallised fruit, which in those days were presented to the guests at dinners.

THE LEAGUE CRITICISED

Now Absurd Says
Sig. Mussolini

Rome, November 15.
The League of Nations which started with good principles has now become absurd with the withdrawal of several of the greater Powers and the fact that the nation which first thought of it did not belong to it, said Sig. Mussolini when addressing the Council of Corporations.
No mention was made to the Four Power Pact, but everybody had it in mind. Without political unity Europe is being overtaken. Japan was advancing, and her silk experts were creeping in everywhere and capitalism was of an old model and out of date.—Reuter.

FROSTINGS MADE OF SUGAR SYRUP

How To Make Them
Smooth And Creamy

Frostings are made of sugar syrup boiled to a certain temperature, poured over beaten egg whites and then stirred to desired consistency.

The use of one tablespoon of white corn syrup with each cup of sugar will produce frosting which remains creamy and smooth for several days.

Icings are sugar mixture that are not cooked. They are made of fine confectioner's sugar blended with other ingredients to make smooth and a proper consistency to spread.

The term "fillings" applies to both frostings and icings when they are used between layers of cake as well as on top, but the true group of fillings includes the whipped cream variety and the smooth cooked custard-like ones.

BUTTER CREAM ICING

1 cup butter
1 1/2 cups confectioner's sugar
1 teaspoon cream
1 teaspoon flavouring extract
Cream butter. Sift sugar; add gradually to butter, working in well. Add few drops of cream at time to make good consistency to spread. Add flavoring.

THE COCKTAIL HOUR

Coffee Cocktail

The trick about this intoxicating mixture is to try and find the COFFEE. The guests tried to at one party and it was not until the next morning that they came to and discovered that it was just an IDEA. Method of mixing: Fill a mixing glass half full of fine ice. Add one teaspoonful of powdered white sugar. One fresh egg. One pony of Port Wine. One Pony of Brandy. Shake thoroughly and strain into a large cocktail glass. Grate a little nutmeg before serving.

CLEANING FURNITURE

If your collection of modern furniture includes white leather arm chairs, remember to wash them only with Soap and lukewarm water.

CARE OF SILKS

White silk clothes should be rolled up in a towel where they are wet. Never hang them on a line. Press them with a hot iron while they are still damp.

WAFFLES

1 1/2 cups Simpson's flour, cup milk, 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons melted butter, 2 egg whites, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar. Measure mix and stir the first four ingredients, add the milk gradually then egg yolks and melted butter, and mix thoroughly. Lastly, fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Cook in a well greased waffle iron. You are sure of success if you use an electric waffle iron and Simpson's flour.

FRICASSEE OYSTERS

Prepare 50 Oysters, pour water over them in a sieve and look over carefully for broken shells. Save the liquor and add to it enough milk and stir until smooth and thick, adding one teaspoonful salt and a few dashes pepper. The above with the oysters added will be creamed oysters. For the fricassee add a tablespoon of finely chopped parsley and 2 eggs, lightly beaten. Serve on squares of buttered toast.

TURKEY STUFFING

One loaf stale bread (crumbed) 1/2 cup-ful melted butter, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoonful cinnamon, 1 tablespoonful Heinz Worcestershire Sauce, 1 tablespoonful onion juice. Mix thoroughly and press firmly into the turkey. This makes a rich crumbly stuffing, and is deliciously seasoned.

FRANKFURTERS IN CREOLE WAY

Delicious With A Glass Of Beer

Hostesses who wish to serve an occasional bottle of beer know that cheese and crackers and cold meat sandwiches are always welcome with this beverage, but it's nice to have other foods to serve in this manner. Here is a creole dish which contains frankfurters. It is quite unusual and is the type of highly seasoned food which is particularly delicious when served with beer.

CREOLE FRANKFURTERS

This recipe may sound rather heavy, but is far more easily digested than the ordinary way wieners are prepared. The heavy food tastes well with beer, but the balance of meat and vegetables is proper. Allow two medium size frankfurters, or one large wiener to each guest. One pound is about sufficient for six servings.

PRE-COOK THE WIENERS

Cook the frankfurters in simmering water for twenty to twenty-five minutes, depending on their thickness. Take them from the fire and when they are slightly cooked, peel off the outside of a clove of garlic if you like that flavor. Brown the onion well in four tablespoons of butter, and then add one-half of a green pepper, finely chopped, and two tablespoons of flour and a little cayenne pepper.

ADD THE TOMATOES

As soon as the flour is blended with the fat and seasonings, add the contents of a can of tomatoes. Stir them to break up the pulp in the sauce. When the mixture is heated through and thickened, add the slices of meat and heat them through.

SERVICE OF THE DISH

Most people like creole frankfurters side covering and cut the frankfurters in even slices.

COOK THE SEASONINGS

Grind or chop fine one onion, or frankfurters best when they are served on toasted buns. Cut the buns in half, and then toast them and spread with a layer of butter. You will probably enjoy the food more if you serve it with an assortment of pickles, as well as the beer.

Each bottle contains 2400 drops of Concentrated Flavour

This world-famous sauce is used in leading hotels and restaurants everywhere.

Guaranteed to be made from the finest ingredients, and is the most economical relish you can buy.

MUSTARD ADDS A SPICY TOUCH

Some Tasty Dishes

To add a bright touch to sandwiches, cheese or cold meats serve Colman's mustard in the famous English way.

A FAMOUS ENGLISH RELISH
Mix Colman's mustard with cold water to the consistency of rich cream and let it stand 10 minutes to develop its full piquancy.

WELSH RAREBIT
1 tablespoon butter.
1 cup milk.
1 teaspoon salt.
few grains pepper.
1 teaspoon Colman's mustard.
1 pound cheese.
6 slices buttered toast.

Heat the milk over hot water. Blend together the butter, flour and seasonings. drop them into the hot milk and cook, stirring constantly until thick. Add the cheese. Beat until melted and serve very hot on toast.

MOCK PATE DE FOIE GRAS
1 calf's liver.
1 teaspoon white or black pepper.

1 teaspoon ground nutmeg.
14 teaspoon mustard.
2 teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons water in which a minced onion has been boiled.
1 cup liquor from boiling calf's liver.

Cook a calf's liver in salted water until very tender; grind in meat cutter. Moisten with 2 tablespoons melted butter. Work into paste with the seasonings. Pack in jars that have been buttered, cover with melted butter and set aside to be used for sandwich filling or to serve on biscuits or crackers for afternoon tea.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE
1 cup butter.
yolks of three eggs.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1 tablespoon mustard.
few grains of pepper.
1 cup boiling water.

Beat the butter to a cream, add the yolks of the eggs one at a time and beat well, then add the mustard, salt and pepper stirred smooth with lemon juice. About 5 minutes before serving add the boiling water a little at a time stirring well. Place the bowl in a sauce pan of boiling water, and stir rapidly until the sauce thickens like boiled custard. Minced parsley, onion juice or grated onion may be added. The juice and grated rind of orange added makes a pleasant addition for use with asparagus.

SAVORY SAUCE
2 large onions.
14 tablespoons butter.
14 tablespoons mustard.
14 tablespoon flour.
a light dash of cayenne.
14 teaspoons salt.
2 tiny pickles chopped fine.
1 cup of stock or boiling water.
Mince onions and cook slowly in butter until tender. Stir in and blend with the onion, the flour, the mustard, salt, cayenne and chopped pickles. Gradually add hot stock or boiling water and stir until it comes to a boil. Serve hot with fresh cooked, or warmed over meats or with sliced hard boiled eggs.

POTATO SOUFFLE
One pound of mashed potatoes, four eggs, two ounces of butter, one and a half ounces of grated cheese, salt and pepper.
Rub the potatoes through a sieve, put them in a saucepan, stir over the fire for a few minutes, then stir in the yolks of the eggs one at a time, next the melted butter, and lastly the grated cheese with salt and pepper. Well butter a plain mould. Whisk the egg-whites to a stiff froth, stir lightly into the potato mixture, pour into the mould, and bake the souffle in a quick oven for twenty to twenty-five minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

CURRIED EGGS WITH SPAGHETTI
Curried eggs are always popular, and spaghetti makes a pleasing change from the more ordinary boiled rice.

Six hard-boiled eggs, one ounce of butter, one small onion, one tablespoonful of curry-powder, one tablespoonful of flour, one pint of milk or stock, salt and three ounces of spaghetti.

Peel and slice the onion. Melt the butter in a pan, put in the onion, and fry it pale brown. Sprinkle in the curry-powder and flour, and fry for a minute or two. Add the stock or milk, with the seasonings, and stir the sauce over the fire until it boils and thickens. Put in the eggs, either whole or cut in halves—and let them simmer very gently for ten to fifteen minutes.

To cook the spaghetti. Have ready a pan of fast-boiling salted water, sprinkle in the spaghetti, and let it cook until quite tender. It must not be over-boiled, or it will become a mash. Drain it thoroughly. Place the eggs in the centre of a hot dish, pour the curry sauce over them, and arrange the spaghetti as a neat border.

ORANGE CAKE
1 Cup butter 1 cup sour milk
1 cup sugar 1 1/2 cups soda
2 eggs 3 cups Simpson's flour
Grind up the peeling of one orange, and 1 cup vanilla. Mix ingredients and bake. When taken from the oven, put the juice of one orange and 1 cup over bread. Bake 1 hour in fairly hot oven.

BREAD AND CHEESE SOUFFLE
3 half-inch slices of bread, 1 pound American Cheese, 2 eggs, 1/2 pint milk, 1 teaspoonful mustard, salt and pepper to taste. Cut, buttered slices of bread in 1-inch squares. Butter a small casserole and lay in one third of the bread. Sprinkle with a little salt and paprika. Cover this with a layer of American cheese, grated and a light sprinkling of mustard. Repeat until all the mustard is used, the top layer of cheese sprinkled with mustard. Add a few dashes of paprika. Beat eggs add milk and pour over bread. Bake 1 hour in fairly hot oven.

Let caramel dissolve. Mix cleaned sultanas, chopped peel, breadcrumbs and sugar in a basin. Add beaten eggs to milk and sherry. Strain over bread mixture. Soak 1 hour. Steam in a buttered basin, covered with buttered paper, until firm.

PUMPKIN SPONGE PIE

1 pint sifted pumpkin pulp, 3 eggs, 2 cup sugar, 14 tablespoon butter, 1 pint milk, 14 teaspoon salt, 14 teaspoon nutmeg or ginger. Pie crust. Melt the butter and add with the egg yolks, sugar, pumpkin pulp, salt and spices to the milk. Beat well and fold in the egg whites, whipped stiff. Pour into a deep pie plate lined with crust, build up the edges and bake according to other pies.

BUTTERED CRAB

4 small crabs, 2 oz. butter, juice of 1 lemon, 2 oz. breadcrumbs, pepper and salt, cayenne to taste, 14 tablespoon parsley. Boil the crab. Pick the meat out the shell, cut it into small pieces and mix all well together with the breadcrumbs, parsley and small pieces of the butter. Season with pepper, salt and cayenne to taste. Pack into the shell and squeeze over it the juice of a lemon or add a spoonful of vinegar, cover the top with a layer of breadcrumbs. Put small pieces of butter over it and bake in a moderate oven for 20 minutes.

RICE AND FISH LOAF

3 cupfuls boiled rice, 2 cupfuls flaked cooked fish, 1 cup thick white sauce, 14 teaspoon onion juice, 14 teaspoon minced parsley, 1 egg, 2 flaked fish, salmon, fresh or tinned, may be used. Add the butter, melted, to the rice. Butter a mould or bricks-shaped pan and line it with the rice reserving a little to spread over the top. Fill the cavity with the fish, minced and mixed with the other ingredients, and spread the remaining rice over the top. Steam or bake the loaf done, about 40 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce or egg sauce.

LIVER SAUSAGE SALAD

Slice liver sausage thinly. Shred half a large onion and mix with cubes of boiled potato and dress with mayonnaise. Arrange the sausage on the dish in overlapping slices. Put the potato mayonnaise in between. Arrange a border of crisp, green salad, tossed in French dressing. Garnish the sausage alternately with tiny onions, gherkins or mixed pickles and tomato rings.

BAKED HAM

Boil a 12 pound ham for 2 hours, then remove the skin from 2/3 of the ham leaving 1/3 on the shank end. Place in roaster with the fat side up and bake slowly 1 hour basting frequently with a mixture of water, vinegar and mustard. Then remove from oven, rub over with brown sugar and dot over with the cloves. Place around it some apples halved and cored, and bake for about 2 more hours in a moderate oven. Serve garnished with the baked apples and parsley.

BREAD AND CHEESE SOUFFLE

3 half-inch slices of bread, 1 pound American Cheese, 2 eggs, 1/2 pint milk, 1 teaspoonful mustard, salt and pepper to taste. Cut, buttered slices of bread in 1-inch squares. Butter a small casserole and lay in one third of the bread. Sprinkle with a little salt and paprika. Cover this with a layer of American cheese, grated and a light sprinkling of mustard. Repeat until all the mustard is used, the top layer of cheese sprinkled with mustard. Add a few dashes of paprika. Beat eggs add milk and pour over bread. Bake 1 hour in fairly hot oven.

The PURITY of 'ASPRO'

The purity of 'ASPRO' conforms to the standard laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the Medical Profession. With 'ASPRO' there is no Free Salicylic Acid, therefore, it does not harm the heart, or have any injurious after-effects, such as palpitation, nausea, digestive or other troubles. Safeguard your health and heart by always insisting on 'ASPRO'.

5 MINUTES

FOR RELIEF WITH 'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about 'ASPRO'. Its service is QUICK—safe, effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dispel or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from 'ASPRO', as it is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither dopes, deadens nor drags.

What 'ASPRO' Does:

1 It Stops Violent Headaches in 5 to 10 minutes.	9 A hot lemon drink with 2 or 3 'ASPRO' Tablets will smash up a Cold or 'Flu' attack in one night.
2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless.	10 It Reduces Temperature in 5 minutes.
3 It Relieves Rheumatism in one night.	11 It can be taken at any time, in Tram, Train, at Home, at Business — anywhere — everywhere.
4 It Relieves Children's Growing Pains.	12 It gives the greatest relief ever known to women at their times of periodical depression.
5 It Saves many a Sound Tooth by Removing Toothache.	13 It Stops the Ill After-Effects of Alcohol.
6 It Brings Relief without causing sickness, indigestion or a craving.	14 It relieves Dengue and Malaria by reducing the fever.
7 It Stops Pain without harming the Heart.	15 As a Gargle, 'ASPRO' is wonderful for Sore Throat, Tonsillitis, etc.
8 It soothes away Irritability.

'ASPRO' is Woman's Best Friend

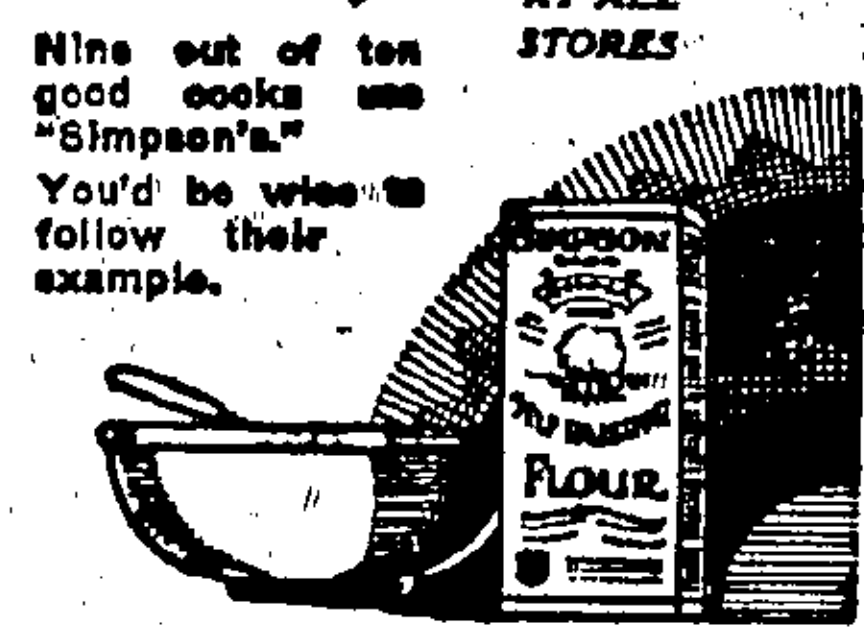

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom 'ASPRO' has a special charm.

CHOCOLATE ROLL

3 eggs 2 tablespoonfuls
2 oz cocoa milk (approx.)
3 oz flour 4 oz sugar

FILLING
2 pt. butter 2 oz. icing sugar
Line a Swiss roll tin with greased paper. Beat eggs and sugar over hot water until thick and creamy. Sieve the flour and cocoa together and fold into the egg and sugar. Add the milk and blend well. Place the mixture in the tin. Bake in a quick oven of about 400 deg. F. for eight to ten minutes. Turn on to a damp cloth sprinkled with castor sugar, trim edges and roll up. Allow to cool. Beat the butter and icing sugar together until white and creamy. When quite cold unroll the cake carefully and spread the filling over the inside, allowing a margin of about 1 in. each side. Roll up again.

WHITE CAKE

Whites of 4 eggs 1 cup Ice Water
1 Cup shortening 1 cup baking powder
1 cup sugar

Cream the shortening and sugar. Add the ice water, then the dry ingredients. Fold in the beaten egg whites last of all, add desired flavouring. Bake 20 minutes in medium oven. Use buttered muffin tins or make two layers. With this cake use white frosting made by boiling 2 cups sugar, 6 tablespoonfuls hot water and 1 teaspoonful vinegar, until the mixture spins a thread. Then pour gradually over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Flavour as you like and beat until cool.

CHINESE FRIED NOODLES

Boil string shaped noodles in plenty of salted water for five minutes. Put in Collander and pour cold water over them. Drain well. Fry a small quantity at a time in deep, heated oil, delicately brown. Drain and crumpled, unglazed.

"CLEANING UP"

A First Rate British Comedy

"Cleaning Up" the British Lian comedy which is being shown at the King's Theatre on Friday, is a film which is certain to cure even the most persistent of the "blues." The story deals with the adventures of a son of a noble family, who decides to work for his living instead of marrying a wealthy heiress. He gets a job as a vacuum cleaner salesman, and his many misadventures end up by him accidentally getting on the stage during an interval and being seen busily demonstrating his vacuum cleaner when the curtain goes up.

George Gee, the famous stage star, plays the part of Tony Pumpford, the son of Lord Pumpford, Betty Astell, Davy Burnaby, of Co-Optimist fame, and Barbara Gott are also in the cast of "Cleaning Up." Nobody should miss this British laughter riot, which promises to be the funniest film seen in this town for many years. This is a topping piece of entertainment. George Gee proves to be one of the best screen comedians we have. He doesn't have to exaggerate to get the laughs he gets in plenty.

"NIGHT AFTER NIGHT"

Showing At The King's

Constance Cummings, first actress ever to share billing with Harold Lloyd, move comedian, plays the leading feminine role in "Night After Night," screen adaptation of Louis Bromfield's "Single Night," which opens today at the Queen's Theatre.

George Raft, player who skyrocketed to popularity through minor roles in "Scarface," "Madame Racketeer," and "Dancers in the Dark," plays the leading male role, with Wynne Gibson, Mae West and Alison Skipworth completing the cast.

Miss Cummings, a graduate of the Broadway stage, accomplished the unusual feat of "muscling in" on a stellar comedian's inalienable right to get all the advertising space, in "Movie Crazy," latest Lloyd picture. And it was with full consent and good will of the star.

In most such pictures, the feminine lead is a sweet little nonentity, who appears, three or four times, between laughs, and finally for a romantic clinch at the end of the picture.

Not so Miss Cummings, however. Her role in "Movie Crazy" was a large one, second in importance only to Lloyd's. And she performed so creditably that her name was on posters, trailers and newspaper ads with his.

In "Night After Night," she plays the role of a Park Avenue

"THE SHADOW"

Crime Thriller At The King's

"The Shadow" now showing at the King's is a very efficient crime thriller in the Edgar Wallace manner. Scotland Yard is pitted against this extraordinary murderer and blackmail expert, who is twice on the verge of betrayal of identity, and capture, but manages to shoot his assailant. Moreover, Scotland Yard is handicapped by an extraordinarily dense and indiscreet Commissioner, who innocently tells the most secrets of the yard to his family circle, and leaves confidential keys in places where anyone can get at them. Suspicion is cast on one person and another, on the Commissioner's beautiful daughter, on his butler, his fatuous female relative and himself. It is a pity, by the way, that the identity of the criminal is revealed on the programme, for the mystery, though not impenetrable, is quite well maintained.

Beside the feature film a very capable Chinese troupe give an accomplished programme. There is a boy acrobat who is quite remarkable and a clever juggler who impersonates "Charlie Chaplin." Quite frankly "Abello," the World Famous Acrobatic Troupe, want a Long Tak Sam, to act as showman and keep it all going better, but the items of varying kinds are good in themselves.

The Story Of "Gold Diggers Of 1933"

A NOTABLE FILM

The late Avery Hopwood certainly started something when he wrote his comedy "The Gold Diggers" back in the immediately post-war days. David Belasco, as seasoned theatregoers will recall, produced the play in 1919 with Ina Claire at the head of the cast, and with Jobyna Howland giving an impersonation that is still vivid in the minds of many.

Lillian Tashman was also in the line-up, with Bruce McRae, H. Reeves-Smith, Pauline Hall, Luella Gear and numerous others.

That production, which ran for many months, was just the beginning of a history whose latest phase is the appearance of the new First National musical film, "Gold Diggers of 1933," which is now showing on Broadway and elsewhere.

This 1933 modernised edition of the Hopwood comedy in the third picture based upon it, suggested by it, or what you will.

The first of these pictures came out in 1926, a silent film with Hope Hampton, Louise Fazenda, Ann Cornwall, Windham Standing, and Alec Francis among the principals. It was directed by Harry Beaumont. Six years passed, the talkies appeared, and in September, 1932 came "Gold Diggers of Broadway," not only "with sound," which used to be such a thrilling accompaniment, but with singing and dancing on a lavish scale.

Winnie Lightner, Nancy Welford, Conway Tearle, Ann Pennington, Lillian Tashman, William Bakewell, Nick Lucas and Albert Gran were in the cast, and they were directed by Roy Del Ruth.

Now comes "Gold Diggers of 1933," with the Hopwood story completely renovated and brought up to date. David Boehm and James Seymour having been assigned to effect this transformation. The musical numbers—all brand new—are by Al Dubin and Joe Burke, who produced the melodies of the recently triumphant "42nd Street." Busby Berkeley, who was in charge of the ensembles in that film, was also on hand when the songs and dances of "Gold Diggers of 1933" were filmed. Mervyn LeRoy was director-in-chief.

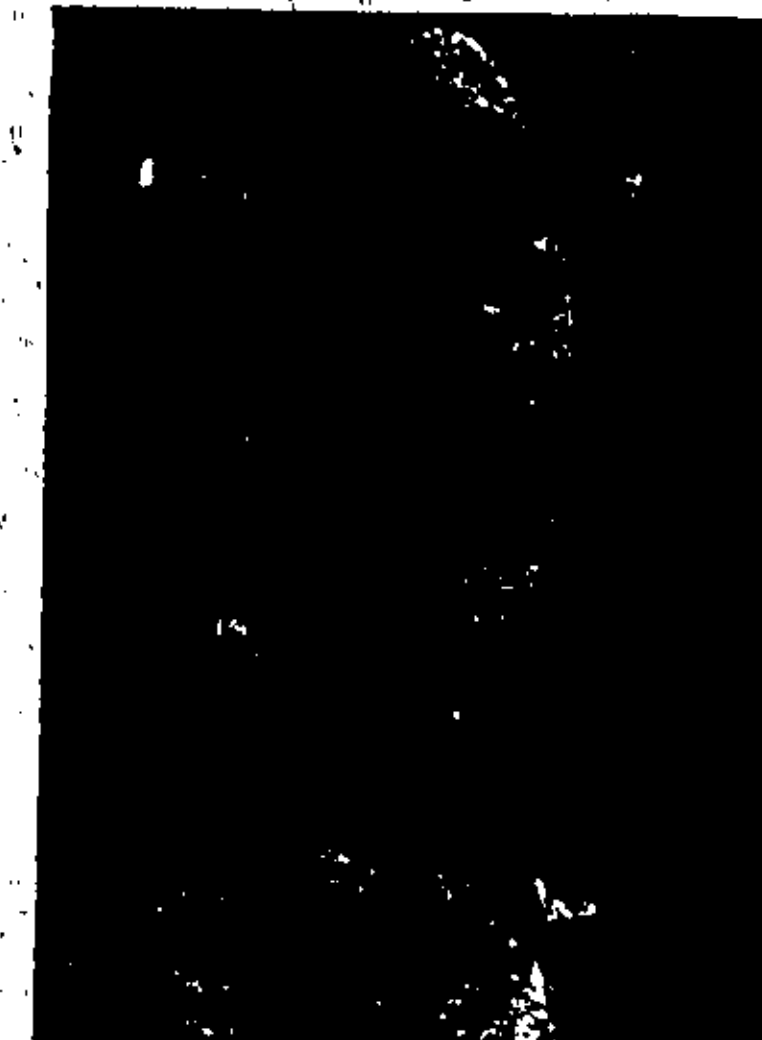

It is practically all new, save the skeleton of the trustworthy plot that Avery Hopwood imagined back in 1919. Even the names of some of the characters have been changed. The name of the heroine, created by Ina Claire on the stage, was originally Jerry Lamar, and so it was when Nancy Welford played her in 1929. Now the heroine, newly incarnate in Joan Blondell, is known as Carol. The part of the hard-boiled older actress, originated by Jobyna Howland and carried on by Louise Fazenda and Winnie Lightner, first bore the name of Mabel Monroe.

In "Gold Diggers of 1933" Alvin MacMahon plays her as Trixie. There was a Trixie in the stage-play, enacted by Lillian Tashman, but in those days she was one of the other girls. It is all somewhat confusing.

At any rate, "Gold Diggers of 1933" has a cast which, besides the Misses Blondell and MacMahon already mentioned, includes Warren William, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, Guy Kibbee, Ned Sparks and Tammany Young.

All of which was certainly not in Mr. Hopwood's mind in 1919.

AN ANGLE ON PROHIBITION

Racketeering Will Not Cease Yet

Officially the American people by act of congress and by ratification by states, have declared the prohibition experiment a failure. The vote by states was so decisive that there is not the least possibility for question about the will of the people.

The identical wets and fanatical dries and theorists in general will spend ages in argument over the reasons for the failure, of prohibition, but the fact remains that prohibition has not worked in the United States. Thousands of those who went to the polls to record themselves in favor of abandoning the experiment were among those who originally voted to try it.

Those who expect the overthrow of prohibition to end racketeering and eliminate crime are in for a disappointment, as also are those who expect the government financial troubles to be solved and the depression knocked out. Bootlegging has served as an organizing force for crime and the failure of the government to enforce the laws pertaining to liquor has helped toward a national slump in respect for law in general, out crooks are not going to be converted into good citizens merely by legalizing that which has been done illegally. The government will derive substantial revenues from liquor taxes, but the people are not going to drink themselves into prosperity.

The important point in the repeal of prohibition is the ending of the sham of enforcing regulations as to personal habits. Whether the enforcement was basically impossible from the start

"HOLD YOUR MAN"

Coming To The Queen's

Jean Harlow and Clark Gable are reunited as co-stars by popular demand in "Hold Your Man," a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture which will be shown from Sunday at the Queen's. The smashing success of "Red Dust," in which they were teamed romantically, brought such a response from public and exhibitors that Anita Loos, famous "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" author, was assigned to provide a new vehicle for the screen lovers.

THIRD TIME TOGETHER
Miss Harlow, who sprang into film recognition in "Hell's Angels," won even greater acclaim in "Red Headed Woman" and clinched her hold on stardom in the tropical picture with Gable, with whom she first appeared in "The Secret Six."

Gable, whose career likewise skyrocketed in the same path as Miss Harlow's, won his first success in "A Free Soul," and recently scored in "The White Sister."

"Hold Your Man," which teams them romantically, has an under-world flavor and is a rapidly-moving, rowdy, worldly story of timely tempo. In it Miss Harlow plays the part of a saucy creature who is willing to allow herself to become the lure in a "love racket" for the sake of her man, Gable, as the man in the case, is a light-moraled chap who finds his real worth when the girl is sent to jail because of the trouble his racket gets her into. The plot is thrilling and with a climatic back ground in a women's reform school.

DIRECTED BY SAM WOOD
Sam Wood, one of the screen's best-known directorial axes, was behind the cameras on the production. He recently filmed "The Barbarian" with Ramon Novarro.

Stuart Erwin heads the supporting cast in the most sympathetic role of his career. He plays the part of the man who loves the girl honestly, and wants to marry her, even when he knows the full truth. Dorothy Burgess is cast as Gypsy, battling night club hostess, and others featured are Muriel Kirkland, Garry Owen, Barbara Barondess, Paul Hurst, Elizabeth Patterson, Theresa Harris, Blanche Frederici and George Reed.

or whether it was not given a fair chance makes no difference in the long run. Public sentiment refused to support strict enforcement and that led to failure, such a failure that there was nothing to do but give the public will its own way and call off the experiment, as it has been done.

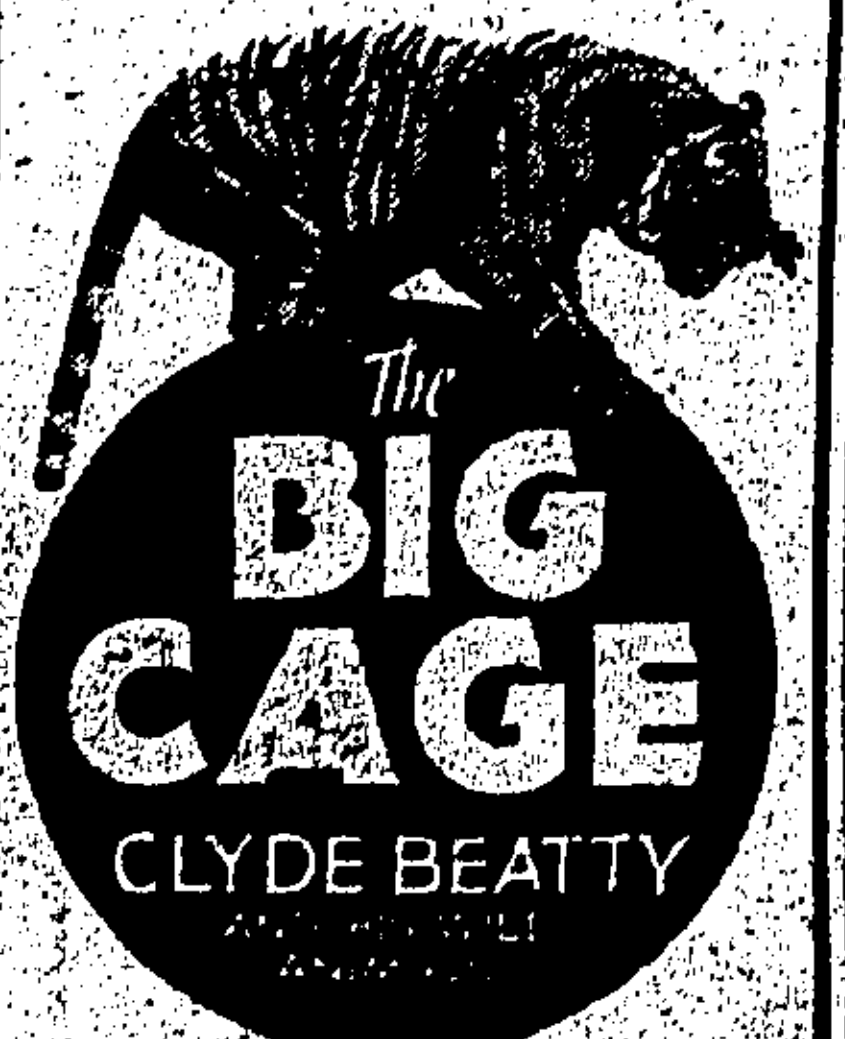

If the dry forces ever want to make another try they first must build the public sentiment. If they cannot do that they never can start another such experiment.

ECHOES OF 1859

49-Attack On The Colonial Secretary

(JUNE 8, 1859)

Where there is no publicity there is no responsibility—that is in so far as the acts of public men are concerned. The knowledge of this principle appears to be very well understood by those at present in charge of the Hongkong Government, more especially by the Colonial Secretary. One would suppose after all that has happened here, that a sense of propriety and public duty—a feeling of decorum and the desire to remove all sources of annoyance—would have induced him to mark some course of action and policy, and satisfy the community as to his integrity in pursuing it—but no, everything is kept dark and enveloped in a cloak of secrecy. The Colony is just held together like an old hulk, and the motto is, "sufficient for the day is the evil thereof," and so cobbling is called masonry, mud is termed mortar, ditches are called sewers, and secret dodging is considered administrative ability. The resources of the Colony are flattered away in foolscap, red tape, misrepresentation, and salaries—not a single thing is done to gratify the public, or to develop its resources—it is allowed to "gang its own gate," and so long as nothing occurs that must be heard in Downing Street, so long is the perfection of legislation attained.

We feel quite positive that our Colonial Secretary looks on the public here much as people in England do upon an informer. He hates them, and he dreads them. From the press he expects no favours and is not disappointed, but if at the expense of the Colony he can exhibit a spirit of animosity, he will not fail to do so. It is he, entirely, who, to exclude the press, actually studies to make the meetings of the Legislative Council secret.

Again, what is the use of advertising for tenders? Why, of course, to afford as much publicity as possible in order to create competition among the bidders. Do the Chinese usually take the "Hongkong Gazette"? Certainly not, yet in the last issue of this precious Gazette we find in Chinese a reward offered for murderers, and three government tenders—two of which were from the Colonial Surgeon. Whilst simply to gratify spleen and malice these announcements are withheld from the only Chinese paper issued in the Colony. Oh, but when the Colonial Surgeon wanted assistants, he didn't wait for the Gazette, not he—he advertised in all the local papers. When any of the precious lot are selling off (we hope the Colonial Secretary may soon be performing that agreeable coup), then their magnanimity knows no distinction of persons, and the utmost publicity is given—but if supplies be wanted, the cost of which does not concern them, they do carry out their instructions and advertise for tenders certainly, but in a manner tantamount to hiding the candle under a bushel.

FAR EAST INTERPORT RIFLE MATCH

Navy Predominate in the Hong Kong Team

Given fine weather Hong Kong will fire on Sunday next at Stone-cutter's Island. Results obtained in the recent trials have been rise to a definite feeling of optimism although a formidable task had been set, the selected team by Shanghai who put up a score of 930 out of a possible total of 1050 last May. Singapore, we understand, are shooting sometime this month.

Position.—The Position shall be by the three ports in equal shares.

CHINGTEHCHEN SURPRISED

Communist Nest Of Two Thousand

N. Kiangsi, Oct. 24. On a recent visit to Chingtehchen, one found the chief topic of conversation was a raid which had been made on a communist nest in the very heart of the mart. The result of the raid was the discovery of rifles and ammunition, the arrest of a dozen people and the finding of some 3,000 names of people who had joined up. Six of the twelve people arrested were found to be leaders of the movement and they were shortly after publicly shot. The discovery came about in the following way: a member of the local militia had been inveigled into joining up and with others, received regular pay each month. He went to the leaders one day for a month's pay in advance and on this being refused, he became angry and for revenge disclosed the whereabouts of the nest. The local people seemed to be breathing more freely after this affair and doubtless the authorities will be keeping a stricter watch on all suspects than they had done hitherto.

DWINDLING BUSINESS

Business at Chingtehchen is very slack and the pottery trade seems to be fast dwindling away. Out of two hundred or more kilns, only thirty odd were being used. The general political situation is no doubt partly responsible for this condition of affairs at this one-time busy and prosperous centre, and there are those who feel that the imposition of production and consumption tax for the purpose of raising funds for bandit suppression, is also largely responsible for the falling off in the pottery trade. The motor road from Chingtehchen to Kinkiang via Hukow planned for many years, is still incomplete and sad to say, in some parts, what work has been done, is going to pieces for want of attention. When we hear of the motor road from Nanchang the provincial capital already being completed and linking up with the one from Yushan into Chinkiang, we cannot but feel sorry that the Chingtehchen-Kinkiang road has not been finished.

Sights and Slings.—The use of Aperture Sights and Slings is optional.

Superintending Officers or Umpires.—There shall be not less than two Superintending Officers or Umpires.

Trophy.—The Trophy shall be the property of the Port winning the interport Rifle Match each year. Such Port to be responsible for the safe-keeping of the trophy until it is handed over to some other Port.

The interport Challenge Shield shall be handed over at the respective Ports for safe-keeping to:—

Hongkong, H. E. The Governor.
Singapore, H. E. The Governor.
Shanghai, Headquarters, S.V.C.

The winning team shall be presented with a Challenge Shield each year. The Shield shall be kept by the three ports in equal shares.

SUDDEN DEATH OF G. PAYNE

Tennis Tragedy At Naval Dockyard

The sudden death yesterday afternoon of Mr. George Payne, who collapsed during a tennis tournament at the naval dockyard came as a decided shock to many spectators.

Mr. Payne was playing against Mr. Hambly. A vivid description given by Mr. Leverett, the umpire, to the naval police stated that the deceased had played a game and lost but appeared to be playing with very little exertion. After the second point in the second game Mr. Payne complained of not feeling well and leaving the court sat upon a bench nearby. He suddenly collapsed and upon being summoned was taken to the surgery where all attempts to resuscitate him proved fruitless. He died at approximately a quarter past four. Although no official statement has been made it is generally surmised that death was due to heart failure. A post mortem will most likely be held.

THE ARMY Staff Changes

Special Air Mail Service

London, Oct. 30. Lieutenant-General Sir Alexander E. Wardrop, who takes over the Northern Command to-day, is the second successive Quartermaster-General in India to come home to a G.O.C.-in-Chiefship. His predecessor at New Delhi, General Sir Cyril J. Deverell, was brought home to the Western Command in 1931 and subsequently transferred to the Eastern Command, where he now is.

Sir Alexander Wardrop was the artillery chief of the Guards Division in France and of the XIV Army Corps both under Lord Cavan, and of the Third Army under Lord Byng. Afterwards he commanded the troops in Palestine, Lahore District, and North China. Colonel Lawrence E. Barnes, O.B.E., to-day relieves Colonel E. F. St. John, C.M.G., D.S.O., as Assistant Adjutant-General in Cairo on the latter completing four years. Colonel Henry R. E. Reed, C.I.E., D.S.O., M.C., is coming home from Burma on "five months' privilege leave and furlough from to-morrow, and at the end of his leave will vacate his appointment as administrative staff officer at Maymyo. Captain E. J. D'O. Inglis, I.A., left India this week on furlough, and will vacate his appointment of Air Intelligence Officer on the North West Frontier on November 15.

KEEPING TRACE OF MUI TSAI

Fine For Not Registering

For not notifying the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs of a change of address, the registered owner of a "mui tsai" was fined $15 by Mr. Hamilton yesterday.

Sub-Inspector Fraser, of the S.O.A. said a lady inspector was visiting "mui-tsai" and called at 590 Queen's Road West. She inquired for the whereabouts of a registered girl and was told that the family had moved to Prospect Place in 1931.

It was also stated that there were quite a large number of girls whom the S.O.A. had failed to trace, owing to their employers not notifying their change of address.

A ROBBERY THAT FAILED

Costs A Man A Month In Jail!

Two unemployed men, who found a place on a steam launch to sleep on Tuesday night were both in Court before Mr. Balfour yesterday, the one as a complainant and the other as defendant on a charge of attempted theft.

The complainant told the Bench that he was awakened twice in his sleep by his compatriot putting a hand into his pocket.

The defendant on being sentenced to one month's hard labour, protested in these words: "If he had had any money on him I would not mind being charged."

PROF. BROWN'S LECTURE

Masterly Review Of Venetian History

[TO THE EDITOR OF THE "HONG KONG DAILY PRESS."]

Sir,—With reference to Professor Brown's lecture on "Venice" it was difficult for you to convey in such short compass an impression of a lecture covering a thousand years of history; may I try to give your readers some idea of what it was all about?

Professor Brown began with the disarming confession that he had been in Venice but twice, and then for a very short time. However, he soon showed that this statement was immaterial, as his purpose was to estimate "The Place of Venice in History," and only incidentally to describe the City. He explained how under the impact of invasions by Barbarian hordes (Huns, Goths and Vandals) the people in Northern Italy, living under the weakening power of Rome, were compelled to take refuge on the small islands that fringe the north-western shores of the Adriatic. Thereby a dozen little towns came into existence, the inhabitants increasing in numbers, strength, confidence, enterprise and independence of spirit.

The Venetians embarked on a remarkable career of commercial enterprise and political development that raised them to eminence in medieval Europe. They became great sea-traders and shipbuilders—a Colonial Power. By the 14th and 15th centuries they sent out annually six trading fleets of 500 ships each and—anticipating the British Board of Trade and Mr. Henry Ford—had a loadline painted on each ship, built standardised vessels, and held stocks of "spare parts" in all ports to which they traded.

The condensed description which Professor Brown gave of the Venetian trade was calculated to make present-day merchants' mouths water. Here it is:

"By way of Alexandria and other sea-ports of the Levant, came cloves, nutmegs and ebony from the Moluccas; sandalwood from Timor; camphor from Borneo; benzoin from Java and Sumatra; perfumes, spices, silk and many curiosities from China, Japan and Siam; rubies from Burma; pepper, ginger, brocades and fine fabrics, jewellery, and ornate weapons, from various parts of India; pearls, topazes and cinnamon from Ceylon; resins from Persia and Afghanistan; ivory from Zanzibar; musk from Tibet."

Professor Brown briefly sketched the story of the Mongolian Conquest under Genghis Khan, whose forces rapidly conquered all China, then turned westward and overwhelmed Eastern Europe. However, the Tartar Government finally achieved an extraordinary degree of orderly rule, so that, for the first time in history, Europeans—mostly from Venice and Genoa—travelled all over Europe and Asia. This led the lecturer naturally to one of the most interesting parts of his address—the story of the travels of Marco Polo, who lived in China for many years, served there as a diplomat and even ruled some of its cities.

Returning to Europe, Marco Polo was captured by the Genoese in a naval conflict and was held as a prisoner of war. He told his fellow-prisoners wonderful (but truthful) tales of the East.

The lecturer next explained the evil influence which the rise of the Turks and the capture of Constantinople had upon the fortunes of Venice, and how the discovery of the New World shifted the centre of world trade to Spain and Portugal, Flanders and England. Lots of trading supremacy by Venice was to some extent compensated by the influx of scholars from the Near East, which led to the Revival of Learning in Europe. Fine arts—especially painting—flourished in Venice.

In 1797 Venice ceased to exist as an independent Republic. The 120th Doge submitted to the conquering Napoleon. In an eloquent concluding passage the lecturer paid a tribute to the glories of Venice—sun-girt city of the lagoon, Bridge and Queen of the Adriatic, home of Beauty and of Art, focus of History and Romance. For a brief but momentous period some of the most brilliant centuries ago China and Europe were brought by the Venetians into the closest and most intimate contact. What better subject, therefore, than Venice for study in the University of Hong Kong, whose declared function it is to

THE CATHEDRAL FUND

Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Cathedral Church Council I write to thank very sincerely the various contributors to the Cathedral Restoration Fund, who have now given us all the money required for immediately necessary work. Any further contributions received will be invested as the nucleus of a Fabric Fund.

I would add a word of personal gratitude and congratulation to the Hon. Treasurer and other Members of the Cathedral Church Council and your esteemed paper for their energetic handling of the restoration and the appeal. They have taken a great load off the shoulders of the Dean, and freed him for the spiritual work which is his job—and mine. Yours faithfully, RONALD HONG KONG.

ANGLO-CHINESE FRIENDSHIP

Sir,—I read with much interest Mr. Lankester's address in the Cathedral on fostering closer friendship with the Chinese people and your editorial on the same subject this morning.

I can well appreciate Mr. Lankester's point of view, in that it is impossible to have genuine friendship with a nation and its people, unless there is a thorough understanding of their language, customs and manners. In fine, the first requisite towards that understanding is to aim at entertaining tolerant views of those who seem to you to stand at the opposite poles of human thought and sentiment. The world is still so sadly divided to-day because mankind in general only pays lip-service to the ideal of concord between nations. First dispel the ignorance and prejudice of one another and the better outlook between nations will follow. To use a Biblical phrase "Cleanse first that which is within the cup and platter, that the outside of them may be clean also." The root evil is the lack of intellectual and spiritual efforts.

I do not deny that since the Armistice in 1918, there is greater understanding of each other among the peoples of the earth than ever before. There can be no doubt that the relations between nations have for the past fifteen years been radically transformed by mechanical inventions and applied sciences. Nations can come into quicker and closer contact with each other by means of rail and steamship and motor and by aircraft. The contact between the nations is therefore more frequent. The frontier of states are hardly obstacles to commerce, and distances which our forefathers regarded as formidable do not divide us. The telegraph, telephones, and wireless assimilate the thought of peoples and even the cinema may effect the elimination of that sense of strangers which has hindered contact with foreigners. Nations have opportunities for frequent conference and ignorance and isolation are no longer insurmountable barriers to peace.

Yet at best, the world as a whole is unified only by science but not united in hearts and spirit. Individuals and nations appear to be hardened and maddened more and more with the idea of struggling for wealth and power. All that the leading nations have been trying to do since 1918 is to change merely the conditions and institutions, and not the heart and mind by education and religion. The present day outlook is in every sense a conclusive proof of the inadequacy of merely material formulas.

Yours truly,
J. D. B.

WINE POURED INTO HARBOUR

Smart Fine On Boat Woman

It was revealed in the course of police court proceedings yesterday that Chinese boat women who had dutiable wine in their possession had an easy means of getting rid of it when Revenue Officers appeared. They simply poured the "evidence" into the Harbour.

Two widows were brought before Mr. Balfour yesterday on a charge of possession of dutiable liquor in respect of which they were each fined $5. One of them, however, was fined a further $5 for possessing evidence in the above manner. She had a bottle which could hold four gallons, and the Revenue officers who raided her boat were able to prevent her from being poured away and this was produced in Court.

To foster and promote the cultural and economic union of East and West, on the highest level, in the friendly spirit, and for the greatest good of all.

LORRY SMASH AT ABERDEEN

Two Deaths From As Car Plunges

An inquiry which was held in the Central Magistracy yesterday before Mr. E. W. Hamilton, into the deaths of Chung Sam Toi and Ho Kai whose demise was caused by a lorry plunging over an embankment, was adjourned until to-day.

Lack of available time to here all witnesses was the cause of the adjournment.

The proceedings opened with Dr. A. D. Pringle who conducted the post mortem giving testimony. Dr. Pringle gave post-mortem evidence, stating that in his opinion death was due to injuries sustained by the fall.

Following Dr. Pringle, Chung Chow, a coolie who was riding on a lorry, number 1313, just in front of the death-dealing car, gave his version of the accident, stating that both vehicles were proceeding to Stanley when suddenly he noticed that the car following had disappeared. He returned along the road and discovered that the lorry had gone over the embankment. He climbed down the bank and after aiding the injured helped to remove the two dead men from the wreck.

He also told the court that prior to the post mortem he had identified the bodies.

Aw Tat Sang, driver of the wrecked car, is still in hospital suffering from injuries, but a statement in writing was read out which declared that he was driving towards Stanley, and when nearing Aberdeen, he had to pass through a group of pedestrians, one of whom ran across the road in front of his car. He swerved to avoid him and before he could straighten his course the vehicle had plunged through the wall and over the embankment.

Chan Hoi, an apprentice driver who was in the cab at the time of the accident and received head injuries bore out this testimony and stated that he considered the mishap unavoidable.

Lung See, another coolie called in as witness contributed nothing to the solving of the case, while Ohing Kow who was another of the injured informed the court that the car was travelling at a moderate speed but failed to identify the driver from a photograph.

Ng Yan, the last witness called, mentioned how he had conveyed the injured workmen across the bay in his sampan and was commended for going to their rescue in spite of the rough water. His was the only boat which ventured near the shore where the wreck lay and he made two trips carrying away the victims.

The coroners jury consisted of Messrs. Morris, Tse and J. Robinson, the last named acting as foreman.

AFTER ATTENDING BANFF

Sir Christopher T. Needham, who recently returned from Banff, Canada, where the fifth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations has been held, addressed a public meeting last night arranged by the "Withington branch of the League of Nations" in the Withington Town Hall, Manchester. His subject was "Problems of the Pacific and the Far East," but he explained that he did not intend to do more than talk informally about his experiences and his impressions in this connection at Banff.

After touching briefly on many of the topics which had come up for discussion at the conference, he said that many of the conflicts between nations all over the world might be described as commodity conflicts. Argentina, the United States, Australia and Canada, for instance, were all big wheat producers, and the object of each was to make as big a profit as it could. "So far this had not been possible, without conflict. Lately the world had become increasingly 'nationalized' and each country had endeavored to become self-sufficient. This was not the right attitude. Countries should specialize in the manufacture of goods they were most fitted to produce, but self-sufficiency should not go to such an extent that hardship was inflicted on their neighbours."

Turning to the problems of China and Japan, Sir Christopher said that the "war of one kind" was the only way to solve the problem, and that a powerful Government, which could control the country, was essential. He said that the only way to solve the problem was to have a strong Government, which could control the country, and that the only way to solve the problem was to have a strong Government, which could control the country.

CASE AGAINST P. C. ROBINSON

Matter Referred To I.G.P.

An application for the withdrawal of the summonses against Police Constable William Robinson for assaulting two employees of the Yee Tin Tong Dispensary and for damaging property belonging to the firm was made by Mr. R.C.H. Lim, counsel for the complainants before Mr. S. F. Balfour at Central Magistracy yesterday.

The cross-summonses brought by P. C. Robinson for obstruction in the execution of his duties and for allowing small human figures to be exhibited were also withdrawn by Mr. J. A. Fraser the Assistant Attorney General.

In making his application, Mr. Lim said that he learnt from Mr. Fraser that he had agreed that the defendant, as a police officer, had to some extent exceeded his power. Both he and Mr. Fraser felt that the matter could be satisfactorily dealt with by the I.G.P., and on the understanding that Mr. Fraser would refer the matter to him, he wished the summonses to be withdrawn. He had been instructed by his client to say that the Yee Tin Tong Dispensary was a firm of long standing, and its proprietor, Mr. Wai Shui Pak was at present a director of the Tung Wah Hospital.

Mr. Fraser, in his application, said that he could not agree with Mr. Lim's last remarks. The complainant's position could in no way affect the case for the defence and should not weight with the prosecution. He was appearing in a dual capacity, to defend the police officer, and to prosecute in the cross-summonses. In fairness to the defendant, he had deplored the assault and the proceedings already taken in the Court would in no way prejudice him in the enquiries by the I.G.P. He had decided to refer the matter to the I.G.P., and for this reason he asked leave to withdraw the cross-summonses.

The applications by both parties were granted.

P. C. Robinson was alleged to have assaulted the two foks on the morning of November 1. He said that he entered the shop at 182, Queen's Road Central, and on receiving no attention, hit the foks.

The defendant, however, strenuously denied having assaulted any of the foks. He said that on the day in question he saw a crowd outside the complainants' shop and went in to enquire into the matter. As soon as he entered, the foks began to laugh and tried to make a fool of him.

STONE KILLS A MAN

Quarrel In New Territories

A farmer in the New Territories remonstrated with a man for striking a pig, and was struck in the chest with a stone for his pains.

The matter was forgotten until the evening the farmer felt a giddiness come over him and later he lapsed into unconsciousness, remaining in that state until he died.

The police were informed of the incident, but meanwhile the assailant had disappeared. The incident occurred in the Tai Hing district of the New Territories.

CHINESE BANKS FAIL

Sequel To Continued Run

ASSETS REPORTED TO BE "TIED UP"

Two very prominent Chinese banks have been forced during the week to suspend business due to a heavy run on them by depositors.

The banks concerned, The Cheong Loong of 151 Queen's Road, Central and the Shun Loong of 139 Queen's Road, Central are reported to be connected with six native banks in Canton, which suspended business at the same time.

Mr. Fun Hin Cho, a leading local merchant, who is known for his many philanthropic gifts to deserving causes is the managing director of these banks and ever since the "run" started, Mr. Pun is known to have made every possible effort to prevent an enforced closing down.

The assets of the banks, according to unconfirmed reports, far exceed the liabilities and the failures are said to be traceable to the fact that a good deal of the assets have been invested in local shares and property which could not be immediately converted into cash when panicky depositors started the "run." It is reported that to meet the situation a whole block of houses held by the banks were sold and other similar efforts to avert disaster were made.

The failure of the Chinese banks have caused a profound sensation in the Colony in general and banking and business circles in particular, and it is needless to add, has reacted on local share and property markets.

THE SICK MIND

New Tendencies In Medicine

Dr. W. Langdon Brown, Regius Professor of Physic at the University of Cambridge, delivered the inaugural address to members and friends of Westminster Hospital Medical School assembled at the Hospital, Sir Henry Hadow, chairman of the School Committee, presided.

Dr. Langdon Brown said that a striking feature of twentieth-century medicine had been a return to the cult of Aesculapius; cleanliness, fresh air, suggestion, dream analysis, and psychological explanation. Until the War psychotherapy was looked upon as a crank and studiously avoided by the majority of the medical profession as savouring of quackery.

Medicine (he continued) was a department of biology, and unless they considered of patient as a whole, as a living organism reacting to change in either the external or internal environment, they would miss an essential part of his case. Ordinary materialistic medicine was apt to forget the face that the patient's emotional and mental outlook would inevitably influence and be influenced by his disease; the psychotherapist was apt to forget that the patient had a body which might be suffering from some physical distress. To-day there was still a craving for magical cures. It was by a combined attack on the physical and psychological side that medicine in the future would make advance.

Ever since his student days, continued Dr. Langdon Brown, many organic diseases had been robbed of their worst manifestations. Yet they were only just beginning to tackle seriously those maladies of the mind which led to so much suffering and which, if they did not destroy the body, might yet destroy the soul.

Power of Suggestion. It was not the function of the doctor to suggest ill-health. He layed that down as an axiom. No aspect of a case should be neglected. Too often the success of unorthodox lines of treatment was contributed to by neglect on the part of the orthodox profession of some aspect. Bone-setting and osteopathy owed their rise to their former neglect of manipulative surgery, homeopathy to over-drugging in the past and neglect of expectant treatment, which meant standing by to help Nature whenever they could, and Christian Science to the materialistic attitude of pre-war medicine. In his opinion, however, the invaders were responsible for errors of commission, which far exceeded the medicine profession's errors of omission. One feature of those unorthodox methods had in common, they utilized suggestion. The Dean, Sir Stanley Woodward, reported that progress in all directions had been maintained and optimism was the predominant note in connection with the study of the subject during the past

ENGLISHMEN AND THE FAR EAST

Monday's debate in the House of Commons on the Government's policy towards Disarmament and the Far Eastern situation may have served the useful purpose of informing the British public that the Pacific Problem deeply concerns the Empire. In these days, however, the man-in-the-street is probably better posted on world affairs, even Far Eastern affairs, than politicians and publicists quite realise, and if this be the case he cannot have found either help or guidance in the Labour trades.

The Labour Party, with characteristic lack of logic, talked much about the collapse of the Disarmament Conference, and the failure of the British Empire to give a proper lead in the correct direction. We had even committed the enormity of strengthening the Australian and New Zealand Navies
by sending them a few destroyers.
That had been sufficient to start Japan and America on a race of armaments! Then, sublimely following the complaint that we had been far too weak in allowing Japan a free hand in Manchuria, perhaps fuller reports will do better justice than the cable service to the concrete suggestions of the Labour spokesmen. Presumably had they been in power during the last two years, they would have broken off diplomatic and economic relations with the Japanese Empire. No doubt the very mention of withdrawing our ambassadors from Tokyo, and dismissing the Emperor's envoy to the Court of St. James would have been sufficient to call a halt to the mighty events in Manchuria and Shanghai! Perhaps economic pressure might have been added,

but it would have been a costly sacrifice for Britain. It will be remembered that while the United States of America had no intention of coming in on such an adventure, for the market was far too valuable, some of their sterner moralists did suggest that it was the duty of the League Powers to abandon commercial relations with Japan as a gesture on behalf of the League Covenant.

When the great conflict at Shanghai was in progress it would have been possible for a combined fleet of American and League-Power ships to have ordered both sides to desist in the name of the League. That would have been a high-handed action, dependent for success upon superiority of armaments, and the ultimate wisdom of such a step is doubtful. It would have savoured of a banging of that mallet flat which the Labour Party abominates. But it is only by its use that such situations can be controlled.

Considering the timidity of America, and the fixed intention of the Powers not to be drawn into war, the League did everything possible during the Sino-Japanese clash. Shanghai was evacuated.
Peiping was not taken. But for the League, and for World opinion, it is quite probable that the frankly aggressive elements in Japan would have been allowed far greater scope.

There is no denying the fact of Japanese militarism, and of the danger of war in the Pacific.
There are many issues that call for knowledge, wisdom and generosity on all sides. To break off diplomatic relations with Japan, as the Labour Party still seem to wish, is hardly the way to placate that proud country or even to get to know what it fears and what it wants. That is the tragedy of Japan's secession from the League.
There is no need for war in the Pacific, but there is a real danger of drifting into war owing to misunderstanding and mischief-making. There is loose talk of a Japanese-American War, but unless trouble is deliberately fomented, the thing is economically and strategically ridiculous. They are too far apart, and as we have already suggested, it is most unlikely that America, who does not care a sugar-loaf for the Philippines, would pour out blood and treasure on behalf of the islands,
which, on one basis or another,
will inevitably gravitate to Japan.
If the Japanese population continues to increase.

The Far East is changing, mighty adjustments are needed, and the so-called "yellow race" have not been backward in making their mark and in becoming fully equal with the "white race".
There is no wonder that there should be turmoil and stress in nations like Japan, and Great Road, Kowloon Tong, became the bride of Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, jur. B.A. (Oxon), the popular local barrister. Mr.

D'Almada came from an old and well-respected family, his father being the head of the firm of Leo D'Almada & Co., Solicitors.

The popularity of the couple was emphasised by the large number of people who attended both the ceremony and the reception which was held at Club de Recreio.
The bridesmaids were the Messrs.
Ophelia Barretto, Gloria D'Almada
e Castro, Maria Botelho and Olga Basto. Mr. J. J. Basto was the best man.

The bride presented an extremely charming picture in a gown which was exquisite in line and detail in Peau d'ange satin, moulded along directoire lines by "Bunice." Her train, falling from the shoulders, was trimmed with orange blossoms
and lined with blue pink chiffon.
A beautifully long floral tulle veil was worn over the face held by bridal blossoms. A white prayer book was carried from which fell tiny satin streamers tied with little buds of blossoms.

Pleasing indeed were the four bridesmaids who wore frocks of cactus green elephant crepe designed by "Bunice" with fluted skirts and graceful capes finishing at the back and trimmed with white fur.
Chic caps of the same colouring were also worn, and bouquets of yellow gladioli were carried.

The bridegroom's mother wore a charming gown of black silk lace and moroccan over apricot georgette finished with a large apricot flower—also designed by "Bunice," while the bride's mother wore a becoming gown of black and white lace with hat to match.

The honeymoon is being spent in Repulse Bay, the bride's going away dress being a myrtle green cloth ensemble with collar of lawn fox fur and hat to match.

Britain, who have settled so much in the past by the sword, there should be shouting for recourse to the weapons that served the nation well in the past! And in China the break-up of the tradition of seclusion, the new desire for national power, and the mingled admiration and distrust of the West, react with the erratic force of a typhoon upon the neighbouring powers. While many of our politicians remain curiously blind to these world forces, the public is urgent for enlightened public opinion, for men and women who know something of world economics, of the power and limitations of armed forces, and of the men-talities of other peoples. No one can afford to be a blind stickle in matters of this kind, for the future of our race, and of the human race, is at stake.

NEW TAX ON RICE

Two Customs Gold
Units Per Picul

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 15.
Rice merchants in Canton have received word from Nanking that the Ministry of Finance has decided to levy import duties on rice at the rate of two customs gold units a picul and that the new tariff will be in force from December 1.

It is said that regulations concerning this new duty will be proclaimed on November 20. Being customs duty, the impost will be applicable to all parts of the country including Canton and Foochow which have special provincial tax on imported rice. The present rate of customs gold unit is $1.94
local currency.

The present tax of national currency for a picul of imported rice is collected by the Provincial Department of Finance and is different from the new duty on rice.
After December 1, rice imported in Kwangtung will be subject to the provincial tax as well as the customs duty.

With double taxation on rice,
merchants dealing in this commodity will have to reduce their imports from Indo-China and Siam and will look to supplies from Wuhu, Anhwei province, Hunan and Kwangsi. During the past few days, heavy shipments of rice have arrived from Wuhu, and not being imports they are shipped here
free from tax.

Meanwhile, rice merchants are required to pay 50 cents national currency a picul for import of foreign rice ordered before September 16, the day from which the rice tax is due and payable. Since those consignments were ordered before September 16 but arrived here after that date, consignees have to pay one-half rate. All such payments have to be made to-day, the last day of grace.

H.M.S. ADVENTURE

Naive Reason Why
She's For China!

The decision of the Admiralty to attach the minelayer-cruiser Adventure to the China Command is interesting, and not less so because the reason for it is rather obscure says the Naval and Military Record. Is the vessel going out to function as a cruiser pure and simple? If so, is she to be supplementary to the Fifth Cruiser Squadron? She could scarcely be used to replace one of the 8in. gun ships of that force, since to do this would be to impair the homogeneity of the squadron. Or is she going out to Chinese waters in her role of minelayer? Since she was completed in 1927 this vessel has been serving with the Fleet as an independent command. Experience has been gained as to the efficacy of the Diesel engines with which she is fitted for cruising purposes.

It may be that there is nothing more to learn in this direction, and that, in consequence, the experimental phase is regarded as finished. But the Adventure is the only ship of her type in the British Navy, and therefore has always been looked upon as of special value for training in mine-laying. It is a self-evident fact that she would have a very much wider scope for such training in home waters than on the China Station.

There is no reason to seek for a strategic explanation for this step. The Adventure will be a distinct addition to the defensive powers of the Eastern Fleet, since minelaying figures prominently in the protective plans for our naval bases in the event of war. It would be merely ridiculous to suppose that any idea of the desirability to so strengthen our naval forces in the Far East has impressed itself upon the Admiralty. We should prefer to seek a much more amicable explanation. The Japanese Navy Estimates provide for the building of a minelayer-cruiser,
rather smaller than the Adventure.
This vessel is not yet laid down;
probably not completely designed.
No doubt it would prove of much interest and considerable assistance to the Japanese naval authorities to have the opportunity of close contact with the Adventure under normal service conditions. Frankly, the design of the Adventure has always appeared to us too much in the nature of a compromise.
An armament of four 4.7in.
gun and a top speed of 27 knots are too limited altogether for the modern definition of a cruiser. Nor does a big surface vessel seem the best type of craft for carrying out work which must often necessitate so much secrecy as minelaying.

C-IN-C. IN INDIA

Sir R. Cassels Likely To Succeed

It is anticipated that the next Commander-in-Chief in India will be Gen. Sir Robert Cassels. In contrast to the present Commander-in-Chief, Field-Marshal Sir Philip Chetwode, he belongs to the Indian Army, but, like him, is a cavalryman.
Gen. Cassels has been G.O.C.-in-
C. of the Northern Command, along the Indian Frontier, for nearly four years, and was previously Adjutant-General. Despite his seniority, he is comparatively young, being still only 57.
In the war he served on the staff in Mesopotamia. He gained wider recognition as a thriving and resourceful brigade commander in the later stages of the campaign—a period that is little studied, yet was in the matter of generalship
a striking contrast to the earlier years.

After the war Gen. Cassels took command of a division in Egypt, and then returned to India in 1920
to become Inspector of Cavalry.

British Capital in Far EastOVER £100,000,000 IN SECURITIES

London, Nov. 14.
The amount of British capital invested in China and Japan was the subject of an enquiry in the House of Commons this afternoon.

Mr. Walter Runciman, who was asked to give an estimate for the two countries separately, quoted an article by Sir Robert Kindersley
which was published in the "Economic Journal" in June last.
Sir Robert Kindersley, he said,
estimated that $28,000,000 of British nominal capital was invested in Japan, and about £40,000,000 in China.

From this total of $108,000,000,
it was believed that the great proportion, approximately £82,000,000
consisted in investments in Government and municipal securities.
Mr. Walter Runciman, pointing out, however, that these figures did not include the holdings of British citizens permanently resident abroad, this conclusion was very important in the case of China and it could safely be said that the British capital invested in China was very, very much higher than the estimate given.—Reuter.

MR. J. H. THOMAS WARNS DE VALERA

Developments In Irish Free State MEET WITH STRONG DISAPPROVAL

London, November 14.

An important statement was made by the Secretary for the Dominions, Mr. J. H. Thomas, in the House of Commons today on the position of the United Kingdom with regard to the most recent developments in the Irish Free State.

BRITAIN'S STAND AGAINST REPUBLIC

He referred in particular to the three bills now before the Irish Free State Parliament for the amendment of the Irish Free State constitution.

Mr. Thomas said: "We are advised that this legislation conflicts in important respects with the Treaty of 1921 and its passage therefore involves a further repudiation of the obligations entered into by the Irish Free State under that treaty. "We have already made perfectly clear the view which we take of this kind. Quite apart from any question of legality we look upon it as a repudiation of an honourable settlement. "No modification of the Treaty can properly be made except by agreement between the two countries. "But that is not the only aspect of the matter. The real significance of the Bills is that they clearly indicate an intention gradually to eliminate the Crown from the constitution of the Irish Free State. "Mr. De Valera has told us, as I said in the House of Commons on 17th June 1932, that his ultimate aim is the recognition of a united Ireland as a Republic with some form of association with the British Commonwealth in some circumstances, and for some reasons, and recognition of the King as the head of the association. "UNACCEPTABLE "Any such proposals would be totally unacceptable to His Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom. "Our view can be clearly stated. The declaration of the Imperial Conference of 1926 as to the relationship of Great Britain and the Dominions under the Crown must be accepted as the basis of the constitutional position of the Irish Free State within the Empire. "That declaration is clearly inconsistent with a state of things under which the Irish Free State would be a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations for some purposes and not for all, and would cease to be united with Great Britain and the Dominions by common allegiance to the Crown.

BRITISH COMMONWEALTH

Our conception of membership of the British Commonwealth is something entirely different.

The Irish Free State, as a member of that Commonwealth is, as Mr. De Valera himself must have now learned, completely free to order her own affairs.

Membership of the Commonwealth confers great advantages which by her own action the Irish Free State is tending to lose—the privileges of common citizenship, economic advantages in trading with the rest of the Empire, opportunity of powerful influence in international affairs in concert with the other members of the Commonwealth in the cause of world peace.

"These privileges carry with them responsibilities, respect for the Crown, loyal observance of engagements, a spirit of friendship and co-operation with the other members of the British Commonwealth. "It is our desire to see the Irish Free State taking her full share as a member of the Commonwealth, not grudgingly, but of her own free will, accepting her responsibilities, and enjoying privileges. If she renounces the one, she can not hope to enjoy the other."

Asked if he proposed to take any steps in consultation with the Dominions to emphasize the policy he had indicated, Mr. Thomas said the dispute affected Great Britain and the Irish Free State alone and they did not intend to drag the Dominions into it.—British Wireless.

Mr. de Valera, President of the Irish Free State

DE VALERA'S ANSWER

What Will Settle The Matter

London, Nov. 15.

The seeming intent of the Free State to eliminate the Crown from the Free State Constitution is rapidly bringing the Anglo-Irish situation to a crisis. It is assumed consequences must inevitably follow if she persists in her present intentions.

Dublin, Nov. 15.

Mr. De Valera, when interviewed, said his answer to Mr. Thomas is that the Irish unmistakably decided in 1918. Those who agreed to the 1921 Treaty abandoned a republic as an alternative to an immediate terrible war threatened by Lloyd George. The British Government never ceased to threaten if the Irish exercised their fundamental right to choose their own governmental institutions and it would be regarded as a hostile act and made an excuse for aggressive action.

A clear declaration by the British to the effect that a declaration of a republic would not be made an excuse for aggressive hostility would settle the matter.—Reuter.

VIOLENT HANDLING OF U.S. STRIKE

Unarmed Pickets Shot Down

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Oct. 25.

One of the most brutal episodes in America's unpleasant history of industrial strife is dramatically recorded in the new issue of Pathé News Reel, which will be released on Monday.

The scene is Ambridge, near Pittsburgh, in Pennsylvania. A group of strikers, perhaps seventy in all, with sticks in their hands, are standing idly in front of their works.

Then comes the sheriff, with 200 deputies (the number is stated), armed with double-barrelled shot-guns and sub-machine-guns of the type so often seen on the screen in hands of gangsters.

The sheriff calls on the pickets to disperse. There is a chorus of shouts from the strikers, and then the hubbub dies down. A picket who stands in front of the others allows himself to be deprived of his stick, and joins the others, and all begin to move away.

SHOOTING UNARMED MEN "Up to this point the demeanour of the strikers has been perfectly normal. It is the sort of situation a dozen English policemen habitually and good-humouredly dispose of in ten minutes.

But as the strikers go the 'deputies begin to belabour them with clubs and sticks. In this fashion the group moves perhaps ten or fifteen yards, the pickets offering no resistance. Then on the left, where the deputies are striking hardest, there comes a halt: obviously somebody who has been struck has turned on his armed aggressor.

The scene that follows would be incredible to people in this country if it were not enacted before their eyes. No sooner has a scuffle begun, with 200 men available to settle it by making arrests, than the deputies begin shooting.

The strikers run. Between the deputies and their targets—one can hardly call them opponents—is a clear space of at least thirty yards. And yet the 200 not only fire on the unarmed seventy, but back away down the road as they do so.

A flash shows one of the strikers lying dead, and another flash a body (whether of the same man I do not know) being carried off across a strikers' shoulders. These sequences have been cut from the version that will be publicly exhibited, on the ground that the whole truth would be too painful. The film ends with a speech by the sheriff defending his action on the grounds that he ordered the

U. S. DOLLAR STILL DECLINING

Little Likelihood Of Improvement

London, Nov. 15.

Gold was to-day quoted at 129/0ld. or Frecs. 81.87, a premium of eight pence, for £420,000 sterling, presumably for the Continent.

There was American buying of gold currencies and sterling. The Continent also buying sterling.

On the market the sentiment is that the dollar is unlikely to strengthen appreciably unless Mr. Roosevelt, becoming alarmed at the decline, decides to intervene.

A BASELESS REPORT

New York, Nov. 15.

The report crediting Britain with the intention to combat any rate above 5.25 appears to be baseless as the rate is now 5.36, but the reaction on the exchange rate yesterday afternoon is attributed to international banking quarters, not to intervention, by the British Equalisation Fund.

GOLD PURCHASES

According to the New York Times the total of all gold purchases abroad hitherto has amounted to six million dollars. At the same time a decree restricting foreign money orders to a maximum of 100 dollars with sterling quoted at 5.20, issued by the Post Office, comes into force to-day. Some uneasiness is felt in Government circles at the renewed slump in Government Bonds.

It is officially asserted that if a choice has to be made between raising the price of commodities by the gold method and maintaining the price of Government securities, the decision will undoubtedly be in favour of abandoning the gold plan, but it is not time for this yet.—Reuter.

POLICE CLUB ANNUAL MEETING

Accounts Show Successful Year

The annual meeting of the Police Club was held yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse, Happy Valley. The Hon. Mr. Wolfe, Inspector-General of Police and President of the club presided and reports read showed the organization to be in a sound position in every way.

Mr. A. Clarke was chosen chairman for the ensuing year and following the election of officers, the President presented prizes won by the members in different tournaments and competitions held during the 1932-1933 season.

The latest Treasury returns show that ordinary revenue for the current financial year up to 11th November amounted to £348,693,774. At the corresponding date of last year the amounts stood at £334,497,288.

Ordinary expenditure to date for the current year totalled £245,178,885, as compared with £244,251,195 up to corresponding date of last year.—Reuter.

LOTTERY CASE HEARING

Duke of Atholl Faces Magistrate

London, Nov. 14.

The Chief Magistrate at Bow Street reserved his decision in the case against the Duke of Atholl, summoned for selling tickets in a lottery.

The Duke attempted to outwit the Lottery Law by inviting any one interested to send him ten shillings for nothing, receiving in return a cancelled ticket, containing no reference to a lottery or to prizes.

A good deal of money was subscribed and an announcement was made later outlining the free gifts of money given to certain persons. There was some criticism of the scheme on account of the high expenses involved in commission to agents.

Counsel for the defence to-day decided to call no evidence on the ground that he had no case to answer.

The Magistrate disagreed, but did not indicate his decision on the legal aspect of the case.—Reuter.

Baillie-Stewart Spy Case

London, Nov. 14.

An interesting revelation was made in the House of Commons to-day, when a questioner urged an inquiry into the conviction of Lieut. Baillie-Stewart in April last on a charge of espionage, with a view to establishing his innocence.

Replying to the question, Mr. Duff-Cooper, Financial Secretary to the War Office, announced that Lieut. Baillie-Stewart made a full confession of his guilt soon after his conviction.—Reuter.

ART THEFT IN SWEDEN

Famous Picture Stolen in Stockholm

Stockholm, Nov. 14.

A sensation has been caused in Stockholm, which will echo through the art world, by the revelation of one of the biggest thefts ever committed in Sweden. BRITAIN FORCED TO REARM

Announcement By First Lord Of Admiralty REVISION OF 1933 PROGRAMME

London, November 14.

The First Lord of the Admiralty, Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, announced that the Government had, with much regret, decided to revise the 1933 Naval programme.

He recalled that the original 1933 programme had included one ship of the Leander class of cruisers, of 7,250 tons, and three of the Arctura of 5,400 tons, each armed with eight and six inch guns respectively.

The policy of building cruisers of comparatively small tonnage had been adopted in the hope that other nations would follow lead.

Also in July 1932 the United Kingdom delegation at Geneva put forward proposals for a reduction of future cruisers to 7,000 tons with a maximum gun-calibre of 6.1, in the hope that this would be generally accepted.

Unfortunately, neither of these hopes had been realised. In 1931, Japan laid down two cruisers of 8,500 tons reputed to mount 15 six-inch guns.

NEW JAPANESE SHIPS

It was learned that she was now laying down two more of the same dimensions and that the construction of yet another two, making six in all, was projected.

The United States also has already announced her intention of building four cruisers of 10,000 tons with 15 six-inch guns.

If, therefore, the British programme already approved were to be carried out, the new cruisers would definitely be inferior to those being developed by other Powers.

As was known, Britain's total cruiser tonnage was limited by the London Naval Treaty.

And the result was that they had been placed on the horns of a very serious dilemma.

If they proceeded with the original programme of cruisers, all the cruisers they would be building would be definitely inferior to certain of the cruisers which were being built by the other Naval Powers.

REDUCTION IN NUMBERS

II, on the other hand, they were to build any cruisers comparable with those vessels, they must reduce the number from four to three.

The first alternative could not be accepted, and, accordingly, after most anxious consideration, and with much regret, they proposed to revise the 1933 programme so as to include two cruisers of a new type of about 9,000 tons, with increased armaments, and one cruiser of the Arctura type of about 5,200 tons.

This alteration, the First Lord pointed out, would not involve any increase in the cost of 1933 programme—indeed some small reduction in its cost was expected to result.

He added that the United States and Japan, under the terms of the London Naval Treaty, were fully entitled to build ships of the size they contemplated.

Nevertheless, it would be the continued policy of the British Government to endeavour, by common agreement, both to restrict the number of vessels of the larger size as much as possible, and also to reduce the maximum size of cruisers to be constructed in the future.—British Wireless.

"BABY" OF THE TEAM SAVES MALAYA

PLUCKY INNINGS BY ALVIS STAVES OFF COMPLETE COLLAPSE

Shanghai In Strong Position At End Of Day's Play

L. Alvis, the "baby" of the Malaya team covered himself with glory in the opening day of the Shanghai-Malaya match when he went in to bat after his side had lost 3 wickets for 23 runs, and, playing like an old-master, staved off a complete collapse with a masterly innings of 90 runs. The vice-captain of the side, V. Croome also batted well while Willis too held the fort for some time while Alvis piled on the runs.

Thanks to their efforts, Malaya compiled 186, and, going in to bat in the afternoon, the Northerners made 107 for two, Stokes and Pat Madar getting most of the runs. At the close of play, therefore, Shanghai were still 79 runs in arrears with eight wickets in hand.

The wicket was hard but late in the afternoon it began to show signs of wear and was bumping awkwardly at times.

STOKES AND MADAR BAT WELL

No change was made in either team when the Shanghai-Malaya match commenced yesterday in sultry weather and a hard wicket. For the second time, Donald Leach, lost the toss with the result that Malaya had first innings, Gibson and Burn going out to the wicket at 11.02 a.m.

Sam Isaacs opened the bowling from the Law Courts end, Burn getting a single to open his account. Torry Wilson then took the ball from the other end and off his third ball Burn hit a beautiful four. Singles appeared to be the order of the day and after play had been in progress for 12 minutes, the 10 was signalled. This, however, turned out to be a bad omen for Malaya for, off the next ball, Gibson tried a leg-glance, and only just touched the ball to give Mayhew a catch behind the stumps. Gibson had not scored during his stay at the wickets while the total was exactly 10 when Eu Chow Tick went out to join Burn.

With only two runs added to the score, further disaster befell Malaya, Burn, in trying to hit the left-hander, gave Simpson a catch at mid-on—12-2-10, and play had been in progress for only 18 minutes.

HAMILTON GOES IN

The Malayan skipper, R. N. Hamilton, who made 51 against Hong Kong in the second innings, then joined the Chinese who by this time, had broken his duck. Hamilton started with a two off Wilson to send the twenty up in twenty-three minutes. Three runs later, however, Hamilton was out to a catch off Isaacs. The batsman hit the ball hard back to the bowler who got his hand to it but failed to hold, and the ball was deflected to Simpson at mid-on, who, running forward, brought off a catch rather low down.

The next man in was Alvis who started his account with a single off Wilson to third man, to across over, and face Isaacs to whom he conceded a maiden. Eu then hit Wilson for a three and Alvis took a single to give his partner the bowling again, but that prove to be the Chinese player's undoing, for he tried a big hit off the next ball and was bowled neck and crop—29-4-8.

Gill went in to bat after play had been going on for 38 minutes and saw Isaacs bowling another maiden to Alvis. The left-hander had his field very well placed and Alvis found it rather hard to get him away. A bye in the next over saw the thirty signalled and then Gill opened his account with a poor shot which went for a four, then a few balls later, he was bowled in trying to play back to the same bowler—Isaacs—38-5-5.

Thus, forty six minutes after play started, Malaya had lost five wickets for only 38 runs. Croome went out to bat with Gibson to run for him as he was suffering from a damaged knee. A two from Alvis followed by a single, brought the total one short of forty which was not noticed till two overs later when Croome hit Wilson for a four. The Malayan had so far been batting 54 minutes. Alvis and Croome stopped the rot and for a time came more freely. Then Donald Leach went on himself in place of Wilson and the fifty was signalled after 62 minutes. Alvis got his two in exactly half-an-hour, hitting two fours, off the bowler, while from Isaacs, a single change was made when "Boat" Leach, in the 10th over, sent him to the tram line boundary.

Alvis added another four to his score when he cut Booth to the boundary in the next over, thus reaching his thirty in 49 minutes, the seventy going up simultaneously. Pat Madar then came on for Booth in the Law Courts end, Alvis getting a short run off his third ball. The eighty was hoisted two overs later when Alvis got a single and Croome a four, the latter reaching his ten in 45 minutes, and with both batsmen well set a stop was made for lunch.

THE AFTERNOON'S PLAY

When play was resumed after lunch, Isaacs started the bowling from the Law Courts end to Croome who took a four off the last ball. Alvis then followed suit, cutting the ball between cover and extra cover for a boundary to send the 90 up in 93 minutes. Two balls later he again found the same boundary but this time he placed the ball past mid-on. He thus reached his 40 in 64 minutes. All these runs were scored off Willis.

In the next over Croome took a single off Isaacs to give Alvis the bowling and the young batsman also got a single. He then saw Croome playing the rest of the over without scoring and in the next over "Baby" banded Wilson to the Chater Road rails to send the 100 in 99 minutes. Then the partnership was broken, for Croome played forward to one from the left hander and gave Pat Madar an easy catch at forward short-leg. The partnership put on 64 runs for the sixth wicket. Croome who had batted for 58 minutes scored 19 runs.

Jonklass joined Alvis and Leach took the ball over from Wilson and Alvis hit him beautifully to score three runs and reach the half-century in 76 minutes. He had been batting very well and had not offered any chances during his stay at the wickets. Isaacs then bowled a maiden and in Leach's next over Jonklass opened his account with a four—the result of a beautiful hit to fine leg.

The 110 was signalled in 112 minutes when Alvis got a four off Isaacs. It was a rather lucky four as Sinclair might have saved the boundary. Then the batsman skied one to third man but the ball fell short of Tom Madar. In the next over, Alvis gave a chance off Leach to Jenkins at fine leg but the fielder put the catch down. Leach however, got his wicket when, a few balls later, Jonklass was given out lb.w. He had scored 5 in 14 minutes while the total was 115 for 7.

Willis filled the breach and faced Leach but nothing resulted off the last ball of this bowler's over. This gave Alvis the bowling again and he took a single off Isaacs two overs later and a bye boundary sent the 120 up in 123 minutes. After he had batted for 35 minutes, Alvis reached his sixty with a four off Leach, the ball being sent near the R.C.C. tent. The next ball was a no-ball and Alvis hit a powerful shot, sending the 130 up in 128 minutes. Willis then came on for Leach and he took a single off Isaacs two overs later and a bye boundary sent the 140 up in 130 minutes.

At this stage Jenkins was put on for Isaacs and in the first over he was inclined to be short. Alvis reached his seventy with a four off Leach after he had been at the wickets for 106 minutes, and two minutes later, Willis sent the 150 up in 138 minutes with a four off the Shanghai skipper, incidentally reaching his ten in 22 minutes. Cricket assumed a definitely brighter aspect with these two youngsters of the team together. Pat Madar was then given the

Six Interport Points

(BY "L. B. W.")

The following are six observations on yesterday's play:

1. That Isaacs was almost unplayable in the early stages of the game;
2. That the early Malaya batsmen found the bowling too well-handled to take any liberties with it;
3. That Alvis showed shrewd judgment when he played a restrained innings before lunch;
4. That Hamilton was unlucky to get out the way he did;
5. That the Shanghai fielding was not up to their usual high standard; and
6. That the wicket, also on the hard side, was beginning to show signs of crumbling in the afternoon.

Mayhew had been playing careful cricket all this time and then he sent Jonklass to the boundary. He was uncomfortable against Jonklass who sent down a beauty two overs later and bowled him neck and crop. He had been batting 39 minutes during which time he scored 8 runs. The total was then 28.

Pat Madar filled the breach and saw Stokes put the Sikh away nicely for two. Then in the next over Madar opened his account with a four off Jonklass to send the thirty up in 44 minutes, this being followed by a boundary bye. Forty was hoisted in 48 minutes, while Stokes got his twenty in 53 minutes. Nine minutes later Stokes got Jonklass away to the leg boundary to send up the 50.

Madar got his ten when he got Jonklass away for a two after having been at the wickets 32 minutes. Alvis then came on for Gill and Madar took a single off him to send up the sixty in 70 minutes. Favouring a double change, Hamilton brought Speldewinde on in place of Jonklass and Madar banded his third ball for a boundary to reach his twenty in 38 minutes, while Stokes got his thirty in 76 minutes. A few minutes later he stepped back to Speldewinde and brought off a big pull for a four, sending up the 70 in 78 minutes.

Facing Alvis, Stokes reached his forty when he sent this bowler to the public stand for a four. In Speldewinde's second over, he got Stokes when the batsman tried a big hit, mistimed the ball and sent it to cover-point where Alvis brought off a good catch. Stokes had been at the wickets 81 minutes and scored 42 runs. The second wicket added 53 runs, the total then standing at 79. Booth joined Madar and scored a single off the first ball he received to bring the total to 80 in 83 minutes.

Willis was brought on again while Gill was put on at the other end—the Naval Yard end. Scoring slowly down for a bit and then four eyes off Willis brought the total to 90 in 96 minutes, and at this point Jonklass was put on again and Madar banded him to the boundary to send up the 100 in 99 minutes.

LATEST TRAINING FORM

Many Convincing Gallops On Tuesday And Wednesday

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The training times clocked at the course on Tuesday and Wednesday mornings reveal many interesting gallops, the best of which is that of Lucy Glitters belonging to Lady Peel did a sparkling gallop over a mile, taking 2.02 over the journey and finishing the last half mile in 57 seconds. This is by far the best gallop for "B" class Australians and I have no doubt, Lady Peel's pony will be selected by every racing scribe to win the last race on Saturday.

Another excellent gallop is that of the Tiger, entered for the "B" class race over a mile and 171 yards. This pony did 2.08.4 over a mile and looks a very good thing for Saturday. Wotin took only 1.27.3 over three quarters of a mile and his first quarter of 37.2 marks him out as a likely candidate for the five furlong sprint.

That Woodland Stag is in good trim is evidenced by his excellent gallop, particularly of which will be found below. For the subscription griffin, Vigilance went over a mile in 2.13.2. He stands a sterling chance of winning on Saturday.

Don is in great fettle and under S. Y. Sung may give a good race to the Tiger.

Of the others which went well, Ajax, Daylight Eve, Flying Tourist, Partnership and King's Justice were prominent.

Women Players' Misread Rules

TWIG MOVED AND HOLE LOST

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Oct. 25.

Two champions were concerned in a remarkable incident during the women's autumn foursomes at Ranelagh.

The players were Mrs. Percy Garon, German champion, and Miss Kathleen Garnham, French champion, both international players.

It was at the second hole that the incident, which had a bearing on the course of the match, took place. Miss Garnham, spying a twig lying on the green, picked it up, whereupon Mrs. Coats, a Scottish international, and "Mrs. Garon's partner, claimed the hole, presumably under rule 12, which states that a loose impediment lying more than a club-length from the ball may not be moved under penalty of loss of the hole.

Doubt being expressed as to the legality of the claim, a messenger was sent to the clubhouse for a copy of the rules, the result of the hole being left in abeyance while the match continued. When the rules arrived and were examined it was mutually agreed by the parties that Mrs. Coats' interpretation was correct and that by removal of the twig, Miss Garnham had lost the hole.

DISCOVERY AT CLUBHOUSE. Only when the players returned to the clubhouse at the conclusion of the match was it discovered that the claim was an unsound one and that Miss Garnham had committed no illegality.

It seems extraordinary that three players of international repute fail to remember the provisions of a rule which says that loose impediments may be removed from the putting green, irrespective of the distance or the position of the ball. In shots through the green a loose impediment may only be removed if it is within a club length of the ball. But this rule will soon be dead, for on and after Jan. 1 next the club length limitation disappears and loose objects wherever lying may be removed at the player's option.

In this instance Miss Garnham lost a hole which in fact she halved, but it is to be supposed that the opponents would have won the match just the same and at the same point—the seventeenth.

OXFORD GOLF TRIAL

A. G. N. Robinson Wins (Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Oct. 25.

The Oxford University golf trial which was played at Southfield, when forty players took part in a 36 holes' medal competition.

The captain, K. A. S. Morrice, can call upon two other Blues, J. F. Pennink and E. H. Moss; the two reserves who took part in the last Inter-Varsity match, R. F. Brown and R. D. Knox, and several newcomers of note.

They include A. Duncan, who did not take part in the morning round, but who returned 78 in the afternoon; N. S. Mitchell-Innes and R. G. de Quincy.

A. G. N. Robinson, a reserve in 1931 and 1932, headed the field with 156. A gale handicapped the players. Leading returns:

A. G. N. Robinson (Shrewsbury and Queens), 78 plus 80—156; R. D. Knox (Shrewsbury and Brasenose), 79 plus 82—161; J. G. Hanson-Lawson (Rugby and University), 81 plus 82—163; N. S. Mitchell-Innes (Sedburgh and Brasenose), 84 plus 80—164; J. H. Johnson (Bishop Stortford and Magdalen), 84 plus 80—164; F. H. Tate (Private and Christ Church), 84 plus 80—164; D. F. CASE FOR GOAL-JUDGES
IN LEAGUE GAMES

When Referees Are Unsighted:
The Goodison Park Incident

ADVANCE OF LEEDS: HULME BREAKS DOWN

Special Air Mail Service

London, October 25.
Angry spectators howling for the "head" of a referee who had to be quietly slipped out of the ground after the match, reads like the bad old days of League football. And at Everton, too! And epidemic of penalties allowed and disallowed supplied the soccer excitement of the week-end. On the Everton ground one of the disallowed variety sent the crowd's temperature soaring around the danger mark, and there may be a sequel.

There is strong evidence that the referee was unsighted at the moment when Felton, the Spurs captain, punched away a scoring shot which would have cost the Tottenham team their place at the top of the First Division table. Further, Everton urge that the ball was over the line when it was punched.

Referee's Decision Final.
There is no danger of mob-rule spoiling Soccer. The referee, right or wrong, is the final arbiter on these occasions, and in the Everton case the official's report will be all the League rulers will want to know about the affair.

What does arise is that once again a vital goal may have been lost through a referee being unsighted in a crowded goal area at a critical moment.

The case for goal judges has definite weaknesses, but it does seem that the time has arrived to appoint a practical commission to explore its possibilities. Goal judges could, for instance, be employed in an advisory capacity, without disturbing the principle of one-man control.

Spurs' Championship Form.
After conceding the Spurs a lucky "rub-of-the-green" on Saturday, it has to be admitted that Tottenham are on top of the table on merit. They have acquired successive tests at Tottenham and Everton. Note that the quality of a team which gathers three points from these two grounds. Their draw at Everton was championship form.

Hot on their heels are the Arsenal, but there is some danger of it being overlooked that Leeds

United have stolen unostentatiously into a strong position. Actually they have surrendered the same number of points as the Spurs. Arsenal's strength lies in the fact that, through the discovery at Everton last Wednesday that Hill can be a great outside-left, every one of the forward positions has been adequately duplicated.

Blow for Arsenal.
There is disquieting news concerning Hulme, whose return to the side was expected shortly. Hulme broke down a quarter of an hour before the end of Arsenal's reserve match at Stamford Bridge, and his reappearance in the first team must now be regarded as indefinitely postponed. Hulme was examined by a specialist on Saturday evening. I understand that further observation is necessary before the exact extent of the injury can be determined.

Aston Villa Ready.
One of the problem teams of the hour is Aston Villa. However indifferently they may be performing, they generally manage to find some form when there is an Arsenal match in the offing. Next Saturday the Highbury club will be at Villa Park so it was not surprising to find them putting up a stern fight on the Manchester City ground. They were beaten with the last kick of the match.

Sheffield United emerged from the doldrums to win the great Sheffield battle before I was gald to see, a 30,000 crowd. They needed the tonic.

It was the United's victory which completed Chelsea's humiliating drop to the bottom place in the table. It is 10th hour at Stamford Bridge. They must squeeze what consolation they can from the fact that after being 3 goals down at Blackburn they fought with enough spirit to score twice.

Chelsea hardly need reminding that the cheque book offers no lasting solution to their problem.

Goals by Half-Backs.
England selectors will no doubt have noted that Weaver scored both the Newcastle goals against Sunderland in a match, by the way, in which all three goals

Do you ever suffer from Headache, Cough, Cold, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Sore-throat, Toothache, or Asthma? If you do, will you allow us to solve the question of securing a cure, of course, a permanent one, and put an end to these dreadful enemies of humanity? Or do you like to be handicapped in society, in business or in your daily association with your strong, stout friends? For your own good, we would strongly advise you to have an open mind, and to make use of what you can call your true companion, instead of waiting for the time when you are attacked by disease, the youngest daughter of Mr. Fortune. When you are living and enjoying the gifts of nature, this unseen thief creeps into your system, and ruins you physically and mentally. Our preparation THE TIGER BALM, which has nothing to do with animal fat, or any injurious substance, will safeguard your interest. When you are in trouble, just pay a few copper coins, and the next moment you will find that this world of sorrow and pain is suddenly changed to one of peace and prosperity.

WHY NOT A PERMANENT CARNIVAL

Source Of Revenue And Amusement

In these enlightened days of progress, when life has become a hunt for wealth and amusement,

all sorts of novel schemes and ideas are springing into existence to please the public palate and lighten the public pockets. Why should Kowloon remain behind in this entrancing race? As there is no apparent reason at all, here is a suggestion to enable Mr. Average Citizen to spend his hard earned money. Why not encourage some company to open a carnival, to run seven days a week, three hundred and sixty-five days in a year. A moderate fee, say for instance, twenty cents for admission to the grounds would give the colony five cents every time a person passed through the gates and in these days every little helps in balancing the budget. Inside the enclosure could be held games of chance, (for prizes in kind, and not money of course, for that would be gambling)

such as house-housie, hoopla, spinning wheels and Aunt Sally; an amusement tax could also be charged for these and if the government made the various stall owners give each patron a numbered ticket they would find very little difficulty in collecting their revenue. Furthermore these games of chance would be extremely well patronized for both British and Chinese people, it is whispered, are not averse to gambling, and were the games advertised on all steamers and trains

one bar, wrapped in brown paper to make it look like an ordinary parcel.

They left their office at 2.40 p.m.
A few seconds later two men knocked them to the ground, and one of the men snatched the gold bar which Higginbotham was carrying. The second bar fell to the pavement, but the bandits left it and ran with the other bar to a motorcar which was waiting with the engine running.

The clerks shouted: "Stop thief! Smash and grab!" but the car quickly accelerated and went in the direction of Clerkenwellroad.

CRASH AFTER GET-AWAY
In driving away the bandits' car collided with that of Mr. Ronald Johnson, son of Mr. G. Johnson, of Johnson Bros., art metal workers, Old-street, E.C.

"I was driving towards the City from the West-end," Mr. Johnson told me, "when a car came up in front of me from behind a tram.
The offside rear door was open and a man was jumping through
it. As the car passed me the door hit my back wing, and I heard cries of 'Stop thief!'"

"I swung my car round and gave chase in the direction of King's Cross. For a time I lost the bandits' car, but eventually I caught sight of it in Clerkenwellroad. I followed it, disregarding an automatic light signal which was against me and a policeman on point duty.

"Just as I was about to ram the bandits' car I pulled up in Myddleton-square, and three men jumped out, and ran down Myddleton-passageway, where they separated. I stopped my car and continued the chase on foot.

"Seeing a man carrying a brown-paper parcel and trying to get on the back of a lorry, I tackled him in Rugby fashion and we both went to the ground. I held him down by the neck until a policeman came up and took the man into custody."

Mr. Johnson, who is 22, is a keen Rugby player, and has been a member of Barnet and Finchley clubs.

FALSE NUMBER PLATES
The car abandoned by the bandits in Myddleton-square was found to have false number plates fixed with wire over the correct ones.

Flying Squad cars were immediately informed by radio of the robbery, and last night detectives were making a search for the men.
The man who was arrested will appear at Clerkenwell police-court to-day.

A principal of the bullion firm said that their offices must have been watched for some time, for the thieves appeared to be familiar with the routine of taking the gold bars to Clerkenwell and to know the appearance of the clerks—who were inconspicuously dressed and always went in couples.

"en route" to and from Canton, Swatow and way points, a steady stream of patrons could almost be guaranteed. Of course, as we said, prizes such as blankets, lamp shades, foodstuffs and trinkets would have to be given in place of money, but the spirit of chance would still predominate and draw crowds.

For those preferring theatrical amusement there could be a small stock company of say two men and two girls and should any more artists be required they could be obtained from local talent. This group could stage small plays or give vaudeville turns. A Tent with what is commonly known as a pair of "Hooch Kooch Dancers" might also have an interest to young men and old while ferris wheels and jiggling cars could provide another type of thrill.

As a final attraction a small dance hall, where a lady and gentleman, tiring of all else might have a drink and a sandwich and a turr
would most assuredly be a success, and would provide the finishing touch to an evening's entertainment at popular prices.

Kowloon, with a little help from the Island, is large enough to support a perpetual carnival. Its inhabitants are rich enough to patronise it. The only question is,
have they the right temperament
Time alone can tell the answer.

HOME FOOTBALL

makes the promotion from more of a jig-saw puzzle than ever.

Penalty-kicks played the chief part in the two big London games. Brentford and West Ham however, should both be pleased with the point picked up at Ful-ham and Millwall respectively.

While Dunne was scoring his first goals for the Arsenal, Lambert got his first for Fulham, but the former Arsenal centre has hardly settled down to the type of game required of him in his new quarters.

Drake is Staying South.
Drake added two more goals to his list for Southampton, who are being sorely tempted to part with their scoring centre, but Manager George Kay tells me that Drake will not be allowed to leave the club.

Advance of Rangers.
There is something ironic in the rise of Queen's Park Rangers to the top of the Third Division (South) table, the season after their departure through lack of support from the White City.

Inspired by Joe Devine, of Burnley, Newcastle and Sunderland fame, they are playing football which deserves bigger crowds than they can command at Loftus-road. Manager O'Brien's first venture in team-building looks like proving a big success.

Exeter slipped at Newport, of all places, but the biggest surprise was supplied by Bristol City,
the only team in the League without a win, who ventured to draw with Crystal Palace.

To find the most consistent team in the League one has to turn to the Third Division (North), where Chesterfield, who have won ten of their eleven matches outright, hold a five points' lead and threaten to make a proce-sion of the section.

SHIPPING NOTES

Annual Closing.

As in former years, the port of Newchwang will shortly be closed for the winter, and the "official" closing will take place towards the end of the current month.

Tientsin Harbour.

Since the opening of Tientsin Harbour again last month, several ships have been able to proceed right up to that port. An official of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire said that a number of their ships were now able to proceed right up to the Tientsin Bund.

Aftermath of Collision.

The Ha Chun S.N. Co.'s s.s. Halchow, which collided with the C.M.S.N. Co.'s s.s. Tung Hua at Halchow on October 30 last, has arrived in Shanghai. The owners of the Halchow have written a letter to the C.M.S.N. Co., asking them to appoint a delegate to conduct a joint examination of the s.s. Halchow to ascertain the extent of damage sustained by her as a result of the collision with the Tung Hua.
